

Open Locks Aid Crime

By PAM TROBOY

Unsecured property is still a major problem for the Plano Police Department.

September's crime rate remained fairly stable, but 63 percent of burglaries and a similar percentage of thefts involved property left in plain view.

Forcible entry was not required in 37 of the 58 reported burglaries, according to a department spokesman. Doors and windows were left open or unlocked.

Although such statistics on thefts are not readily available, police believe that most involve property left outside or in an unlocked car. (Taking an item from a motor vehicle is a burglary in Texas, but the offense is carried as a theft by the Federal Bureau of Investigation for statistical purposes.)

"Most burglars and thieves take things on impulse," the spokesman noted. "If they see something laying there, they'll take it; but if it's a little difficult to get, they may pass it by." He added that burglaries and thefts of unsecured property are a substantial part of the city's crime rate. More than 90 percent of offenses reported here are property crimes.

Unsecured Property Prime Theft Target

During the past month, only 15 "people" crimes were reported. Fifteen assaults, 14 of which were classified as aggravated, were confirmed.

Six auto thefts and 153 other thefts were also reported to the FBI as major crimes. Police said they cleared 34 percent of the offenses.

The high clearance rate is primarily the result of a Dallas man's confession to numerous burglaries committed several months ago. The man cleared the Plano offenses after he was convicted of similar crimes in Dallas.

The department also had a high property recovery rate for the month. Several items taken in months-old burglaries and thefts were reported found during September. The old recoveries boosted the past month's recovery rate to 79 percent.

Officers said they recovered $54,848 in property, while $69,137 was reported stolen. The merchandise included: $5,621 in money, $2,849 recovered; $650 in jewelry, $8,510 recovered; $121 in clothing, $1,550 recovered; $9,400 in vehicles, $2,200 recovered; $20 in office equipment recovered; $6,910 in televisions, radios and stereos, $13,693 recovered;

$1,775 in firearms, $4,639 recovered; $19,470 in household goods, $10,190 recovered; $474 in consumable goods, $30 recovered; and $24,716 in miscellaneous, $11,167 recovered.

Twenty-six percent of September's thefts were of motor vehicle parts or accessories. Among the thefts reported were 41 parts and accessories, 31 bicycles, 23 from motor vehicles, 11 from buildings, five by shoplifting, one from coin operated machines, one by pickpocket and 40 miscellaneous.

Arrests were up during the past month. Police arrested 150 adults including two for burglary, one for theft, one for vandalism, three for possession of marijuana, two for gambling, 12 for driving while intoxicated, 14 for public drunkenness, one for disorderly conduct and 114 for all other offenses.

School Board Studies Bond Program Items

Two items related to the recent successful school bond issue will receive the attention of trustees at Tuesday night's School Board meeting at the School Administration Building, 1517 Avenue H.

Prior to convening in public session at approximately 8 p.m., the seven-member School Board will conduct a walk-through at 6:30 p.m. of the Saigling Elementary School for acceptance of the building and will meet in executive session at 7:30 p.m. to consider site and personnel matters.

During the public session of the meeting, trustees will consider a recommendation from school financial advisor Frank Medanic regarding the sale of the remaining bonds from the 1974 capital improvements program as well as some of the bonds from the bond program approved Oct. 1.

Trustees will also be asked to name Corgan Associates Inc. as architects for the music room addition for Haggard Middle School which was included in the Oct. 1 bond program.

In other action, trustees will consider approval of student trips to Fort Wolters for ROTC students, to New Orleans for the King Tut exhibit for Vines social studies students and to Europe during the spring holidays for Vines French students.

Also to be considered are a change order on the Wells Elementary School construction project, acceptance of the guarantee on the artificial turf at the new athletic stadium, acceptance of Saigling Elementary and setting the date of its dedication for Nov. 20, and review of engineering plans for stadium parking.

Trustees will also give first reading to a new policy on school fees and to an amendment to the policy on admission of underage students. Both policies are intended to adjust district operations to comply with new state laws.

Day Care Permits Top Zoning Agenda

Two day care centers have requested special use permits from the Planning and Zoning Commission.

The permits and three rezoning cases will be the subject of public hearings at the 7:30 p.m. Monday meeting. CenCor Services wants day care centers on the north side of Park Boulevard about 500 feet east of Avenue K and at the intersection of Alma and Mossvine Drives.

The first rezoning case is on 2.3 acres at the northwest corner of the Townbluff-Parker intersection. David Lane has asked for office zoning on the duplex tract.

Light commercial zoning has been requested for 4.2 acre on the southwest corner of Custer Road and SH 121. The property owned by James H. Schiff is not yet in the city.

The final public hearing is on the annexation and zoning of 37.9 acres on White Rock Road about 2900 feet west of Coit Road. C.T. and W.J. Beckham has requested SF-3 zoning.

Fox & Jacobs Inc. has submitted plans for the Park Forest addition. The final plat of Section VIII shows 146 lots on 38 acres. The preliminary plat of Section VI shows 167 lots on 41.7 acres.

A corrected plat, a final plat and a site plan of sections of Pitman Corners, at the intersection of FM 544 and Custer Road, will also be considered.

Also on the agenda are the preliminary plat of Riverbend West on Park Boulevard, east of Coit Road; the site plan and final plat of Bethany Bible Fellowship on Parker Road, about 800 feet west of Independence Parkway; and the final plat of Los Rios V located east of Albritton Park and south of the proposed Park Boulevard.

All Smiles

Senior April Barlow and the rest of the Plano Wildcat cheerleaders kept smiles on their faces for most of the evening Friday as their team rolled over the Berkner Rams 16-0. Three district games remain for the Wildcats with homecoming set for Oct. 28 when Plano plays Greenville. (Staff photo).

Bob Ellis Declares For Judge

Former Plano Mayor Pro-Tem Bob Ellis announced today that he would definitely be a candidate for Collin County Judge in the May 1978 Democratic primary.

"Since Judge (Nathan E.) White (Jr.) was so instrumental in raising his own salary to $20,800 a year, I feel that he should make himself more available at the courthouse for county business on a scheduled basis, if nothing else, rather than being off somewhere else pursuing his personal political ambitions and his multiple outside business interests," said Ellis.

The candidate also said he believes that a county judge should provide leadership by coordinating county activities "instead of trying to tell other elected county officials how to run their business, as has been done in the past."

Ellis, a three-term Plano City Councilman and retired Air Force Colonel, had previously announced for Precinct 2 County Commissioner, but said his regular attendance at Commissioners Court meetings since January has convinced him that "a more urgent change is needed in the judgeship."

'Save Open Spaces' Organizes in Plano

SOS—Save Open Space—will hold its first general meeting in Plano Thursday at 7:30 p.m. at Christ United Methodist Church, 2640 Glencliff Dr. The introductory meeting will feature a panel discussion by local city officials and Dallas SOS leaders.

According to SOS representative Joyce Johntz, the environmental support group is forming in Plano in order to "provide a media through which the citizens can become involved with decisions affecting development, and to encourage a positive working relationship between city officials, developers and the citizenry—particularly concerning the preservation, restoration and appropriate use of open space."

Active in Dallas for more than five years, SOS hopes to model its Plano chapter after the Dallas group. The organization will concern itself with such open areas as neighborhood and community parks, bikeways and walking paths, soccer fields and tennis courts.

"A variety of open spaces can make the urban area more attractive and urban life more enjoyable," explained Mrs. Johntz. "Today, because of the rapid pace of development in Plano, setting aside desirable open spaces is difficult. Tomorrow, it may be impossible."

Organizers of the Plano SOS invite all interested persons to attend the panel discussion and general meeting this Thursday evening. For more information, or to join the chapter, call 424-3817 or 423-8073, or see the registration form on page eight of today's Daily Star-Courier.

Growing County Adds to DA's Job

O'Connell Stands Up for Rights of Citizens

BY TERRI ANDERSON

In the movies and on television, he's almost always portrayed as the perennial bad guy, intent on pinning the crime on a likable defendant unjustly accused of some wrongdoing.

In reality, he's a representative of the state, elected to his office and assigned to the monumental task of bringing to justice the thieves, murderers, drug dealers and other assorted breakers of the community's rules.

Collin County District Attorney Tom O'Connell says he feels "very strongly" about his office and the duties it entails. He picks up public protection when local police departments are through.

"We ultimately make the decision to prosecute," O'Connell said. "If we don't stand up for the rights of the folks here, no one else will. Like any other office where you make decisions, not everyone is going to agree, but we have to take the criticism for what it's worth."

"We review cases with the aim of filing them," he added. "We don't look for ways not to have any work to do. That's the foundation of this office."

As the county's population surges further and further ahead of the 1000,000 mark, the workload undertaken in the tiny, third-floor courthouse offices of the public prosecutor increases along with it.

Already this year, O'Connell and his four assistant district attorneys and one investigator have handled between 30 and 40 jury trials—long and extremely complicated procedures. The district attorney said he anticipates some 350 total grand jury indictments by the end of this year.

Without the help of the controversial plea-bargaining process, O'Connell's job would be virtually impossible to carry out. Each jury trial takes between two and three days to complete, sometimes longer. If each of the estimated 350 indicted offenders chose to go to trial this year, the court backlog would be more than two years.

Plea-bargaining accounts for about 90 percent of Collin County's adjudicated cases (that figure is even with the national average). In other words, only about 10 percent of all cases filed in the county ever really go to trial.

In the plea-bargaining process, the district attorney or one of his assistants meets with the defendant's lawyer in an attempt to negotiate a sentence for the accused.

"We don't plea-bargain on a reduction of the crime—as a matter of policy we never reduce cases," O'Connell explained. "We plea-bargain on sentences. We roll the dice and whatever happens happens. Our office has already evaluated every case when it comes to plea-bargaining. We've followed it along and have a good idea of what the market value of the case is," the prosecutor continued. "We know what our recommendation as to pleas are and they (the defendants) can take it or leave it."

Beginning in July of next year, the plea-bargaining process may become even more valuable. A new law comes into effect in July 1978 that will require the district attorney to be ready to try a defendant within 120 days from the date of arrest.

"Ideally, it should be that way—the idea's good and the concept's good," commented O'Connell. "The question is, physically, what is it going to do to us?"

Police action on a case takes time, the district attorney explained; review by his office also takes time along with grand jury proceedings. Under the new law, if the state (DA's office) is not ready within the 120-day limit, the case cannot be tried and the defendant goes free.

Although most cases in Collin County are completed within 120 days, several more complicated ones require extra time. Also, only one of the county's two district court judges is currently hearing felony trials and cases must wait until his docket can allow them in.

When the county's new courthouse-jail complex is finished some time next year, both District Judges Tom Ryan and John McCraw will have their own courtrooms in which to hear cases. But if both decide to handle felony jury trials, O'Connell says that his current staff will not be able to handle the load.

"We don't have the staff for two district courts," said the district attorney. "We would need at least two more prosecutors to handle two (criminal) district courts."

At present, two of O'Connell's four assistant district attorneys are assigned to the county court-at-law which processes criminal misdemeanors. The other two assistants handle all felony work with O'Connell himself taking a share of the jury trials.

Chief assistant Sue Holand is responsible for all the juvenile court work done by the DA's office—one of the biggest tasks the prosecutors face.

"Our juvenile problem has grown by leaps and bounds," said O'Connell. "There's not really a wave of juvenile crime, we're just working on it now where we weren't able to do so before. We're more active than we ever have been."

The office's investigator sees that all cases are ready to be tried by coordinating witnesses and preparing evidence.

With the county growing by the thousands in population each year, Collin County District Attorney Tom O'Connell has his hands full with the prosecution of criminals. He estimates the grand jury will return some 350 indictments this year, all of which must be handled by O'Connell and his four assistant district attorneys. Only 10 percent of those cases ever goes to trial, however, since the remaining 90 percent is processed through plea-bargaining. O'Connell has served as district attorney in Collin County since September of 1971 and was an assistant DA for three years before that. (Staff photo by Mike Newman).

Sometimes the police officers who make the original arrests are not pleased with the final dispositions of their cases. Perhaps the sentences agreed upon in the plea-bargaining phase were not what the officers' may have wished for.

But, as O'Connell pointed out, "you have to take criticism for what it's worth." After holding one of the toughest jobs in the county for more than six years, he's grown used to the pressures.

Before any such preparation begins, O'Connell reviews the files on felonies brought to his office by local police departments. If he feels the evidence is sufficient, he presents the case to the grand jury which will either return an indictment or no-bill the case.

"We're not necessarily looking for ironclad cases," said O'Connell, "but we want something more (from the police) than 'I know he did it and I want him in jail.'"

Court to Canvass Election Returns

Returns from last weekend's local option in Plano will be canvassed at Monday's 9 a.m. meeting of the Collin County Commissioners Court.

Due to a quirk in the liquor election laws, the returns could not be canvassed and declared official at last week's meeting. Commissioners are expected to confirm election results of 5,791 for the option and 4,464 against.

The proposition, approved by local voters Oct. 8, allows the legal sale of beer and wine for off-premise consumption.

Sheriff Jerry Burton will outline the activities of his department during fiscal year 1976-77 at tomorrow's meeting and the court will also consider change orders for the general construction and furniture contracts for the new courthouse-jail complex now under construction in McKinney.

Three items tabled from last week are included in the 11-item agenda. Precinct 2 Commissioner Bay Sellers will seek permission to advertise for bids on two loaders, surplus land on State Highway 5 will be considered, and W.K. Hassell will request permission to lay a gasoline along county right-of-way in Precinct 3.

The Downtown Merchants Association of McKinney has asked that the county pay monthly rental on a parking lot near the courthouse.

Registration Underway For YMCA Classes

The Plano YMCA announces that registration for its second term of informal education classes is continuing.

Classes are offered for all ages, preschool through adult and meet at several different locations throughout the city. Classes for the second term will begin the week of Oct. 31. Persons interested in registering for a class must do so in person at the YMCA office, 2601 Glencliff, or call 424-8567 for more information.

Preschool classes include Beginning Tumbling, Tumbling II & III, Preschool Variety, Modern Dance and Young Art. These classes are held at one of the following locations: YMCA, 2601 Glencliff, Christ United Methodist Church, 2640 Glencliff, First Presbyterian Church, 1500 Jupiter Rd. or Aldridge Elementary School Gym.

Classes for school-age boys and girls include Beginning Tumbling, Tumbling II, Modern Dance, Arts & Crafts, Beginning Bowling and Beginning Guitar. These classes are also held at the locations listed above, including Plano Lanes.

Adult classes include two classes in women's slim-nastics, one held at the YMCA and one at the First Presbyterian Church. Basic Knit Sewing, Hatha Yoga, Oriental Belly Dancing, Macrame & Sketching & Drawing are to be held at the YMCA.

A special class for parents of hyperactive children is being offered on Wednesday nights, 8-9:30 p.m. at Fair Oaks Plaza, 661 18th St., Suite 101. This class is being instructed by Harvey Loomstein, Ph.D. to help parents of these children to gain a better understanding of hyperactivity and concrete ways of dealing with it. This class will be held for six weeks.

These classes are offered to non-members as well as Y-members. Persons needing more information the class program should call the Y office at 424-8567. Office hours are 8:30 a.m.-7 p.m. daily and 9 a.m.-noon on Saturday.

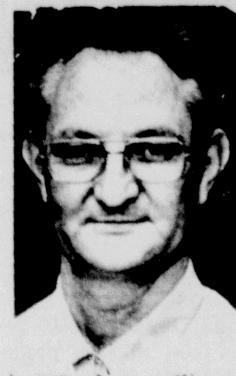

Musical Evening Planned

An evening of classical chamber music along with jazz old-and-new will be presented in "An Evening of Music with Peter Vollmers and Friends," Monday, Oct. 17, at The University of Texas at Dallas.

Vollmers, director of the instrumental ensemble at UT-Dallas and jazz musician-at-large, is also conductor of the pops concerts for the Dallas Symphony Orchestra. The performance will be at 8 p.m. in the University Theatre at UT-Dallas, located at Campbell and Floyd Roads in Richardson. Additional information may be obtained by calling 690-2982.

District Attorney Tom O'Connell was elected to his office more than six years ago after serving as assistant DA for three years. He has seen a lot of changes in the county during those years, and expects to see one of the biggest changes yet when his office makes the move next spring to the new county courthouse-jail complex. ANGINA PECTORIS Angina Pectoris is a fairly common heart disorder that is usually known as Angina. Like most medical terms (if you can speak a dead language) it is descriptive of the ailment. Angina means pain and Pectoris refers to a muscle in the chest, so a person having an attack has pain in the chest muscle. This pain may also radiate to the neck, lower jaw, shoulder or down the arm.

By the same terminology, Angina Headous could refer to a headache and right now my school kids seem to be affected by Angina-Studious. When I was growing up (during the dark ages) my mama would cure Angina Studious with something that could be called Angina-Rearendious.

"The manifestation of Angina Pectoris is a result of an imbalance of Myocaridal oxygen supply and demand. This translates as "the heart ain't getting as much oxygen as it wants and is letting the person know about it."

The major cause of such a condition is hardening of the arteries coming into the heart. This is roughly equivalent to a water pipe getting corroded with a bunch of junk and not carrying as much water as it is supposed to. With the blood vessel, it doesn't carry as much oxygenated blood to the heart as is needed.

If you suddenly find yourself having a hurting in the chest region during a period of excessive exercise, anxiety, or tension the best thing to do is cool it for a while and the discomfort should go away. If you have had this before, and have been endowed with the sense that God gave a goose, take a Nitroglycerine, if the pain is still present have someone take you to the hospital cause you could have more than a simple case of Angina.

This is the story of the 23-hour day. It was Thursday, October 13, 1977 (that's what the problem was). Friday the 13th came on Thursday.

What happened was, I decided to go to Mobile, Alabama to look at this piece of equipment we are thinking of buying. So, I made a plane reservation to go and return all in one day. It was poor planning on my part, but I didn't realize the air service was so poor in the deep south.

I hopped out of bed at 5:30 a.m. in order to catch my morning flight. I was routed through New Orleans and on to Mobile, and naturally we were an hour late. I got to Mobile about 1 p.m.

I was met at the airport and after lunch, we went to have a look at the equipment. There was an electrical problem, and we couldn't get it to operate. Finally, at about 6 p.m. we got the thing running. Then, I made a dash back to the airport so as not to miss my return flight. When I got there, the man at Southern Airlines informed me that my flight back to New Orleans was an hour late and I would miss my connection to DFW. He said he would book me on Eastern to Atlanta, and I could catch a 10:30 Delta flight to Dallas.

The Eastern flight was an hour late, and I missed the Dallas flight by seven minutes. The next flight was at 12:30, so I had two hours to kill.

Finally, I got on a plane, and got back to DFW in the small hours of the morning. I had left on Braniff, and returned on Delta, so I had no idea how to get back to my car.

There was no one around except some cleaning people, and I asked one of them how to get to Lot A1, which is where I left my car. He said Huh? I finally found a guy in an office, and asked him if he could help me. He said he couldn't, but he would call a security man.

The security man seemed to think I might be doing something furtive. He questioned me at some length and then told me to take the Amtrak to the North parking lot. I said fine, how will I know when to get off. He assured me there would be a sign.

Sure enough, there finally turned up a sign that said North Parking lot, and I hopped off. The trouble was, I was at lot A3. I finally found another security guy, and he directed me to lot A1 which was about a quarter-mile away. When I finally found my car, the battery was dead as a door-nail. I had left the lights on.

I found another security guy in a truck, and he jumped my battery and got me started. I hopped in and drove home. As I drove in the driveway, the announcer on the radio cheerfully informed me it was 4:31 a.m.

All this taught me two things: Don't try to go anywhere in the South and return the same day, and don't ever get caught at DFW after midnight if you don't know exactly where you need to go. There isn't much of anyone around to help you.

This morning (Friday), I got to the office about 11 a.m. It is now about 2 p.m. I'm going home to catch a nap.

Affluent Bureaucracy

A pay hike for almost 3.5 million federal workers and military personnel became effective Oct. 1, a 7.05 per cent increase that is the largest since 1969 and in total dollars the greatest ever.

And despite some public skepticism, the majority of the recipients work hard, try to provide the taxpayers with good service and — like the rest of us — struggle to keep ahead of inflation.

There are also 360,000 workers in the Washington area who are included in the bureaucracy upon which President Carter set his sights in his campaign pledge to shake up the red tape jungle.

Even among the agencies that flourish in the capital, there is general agreement that Mr. Carter's self-imposed reorganization task may be beyond the realm of possibility. Many civil servants acknowledge that their numbers include highly overpaid parasites who won't work — that waste and mistakes are a way of life — that supervisors are powerless to make improvements.

Some workers contend that enforced inactivity is the result of red tape — others charge that red tape is created sometimes to justify the agency or department that produces it.

Congress is not blameless. Much of the legislation it approves calls for interpretation to sort out its complexities.

Inflexible Civil Service rules and regulations make it almost impossible to remove incompetents from government service.

Employees, staff and members of Congress themselves are wary of needed reform.

The outlook is gloomy for the President's crusade to overhaul the federal work force. Because of its intangible product, efficiency is difficult to measure. Increasingly generous pay scales demand that the effort be made.

TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN—Texas has another famous name from the past heading its modern-day State Treasury operations which involve billions of dollars in public fund investments with Texas banks.

Gov. Dolph Briscoe appointed Dallas County Treasurer Warren G. Harding, 56, to succeed the late Jesse James as state treasurer following James' death of a heart attack.

Harding, a Democrat, was named for a former Republican president, as James was named for a famous outlaw who became a kind of folk hero.

"I will look into the investment portfolio and assure you all state money will be invested at the best interest," said Harding.

The new treasurer said he is considering appointment of a "money manager" with professional skills in the investment of public funds.

However, he delayed discussion of other possible reforms in the Treasury Department which has been subject to criticism in recent years.

Harding once ran for the office against James—21 years ago—and was defeated 812,603 to 536,746.

He intends to run for the post in 1978—and once more the incumbent, though new on the job, will have the advantage of name identification.

Clayton Offers Tax Advice

House Speaker Bill Clayton advised taxing authorities to abide by a new law permitting open space lands to be taxed on the basis of productivity rather than market value.

The law was passed this year in anticipation that a related constitutional amendment would also be submitted to voters, but the amendment never cleared the legislature.

Clayton claims the law will stand on its own and should be recognized by taxing authorities in valuing farm and ranch land after January 1, in spite of anticipated attacks on its constitutionality. The advice apparently conflicts with that of Atty. Gen. John Hill in a July 6 opinion.

Sale Booms Income

A School Land Board lease sale last week added more than $27 million to the Permanent School Fund, which now totals $1.5 billion and is among the world's three top educational endowments.

A total of 443 high bids were awarded oil and gas companies, according to Land Commissioner Bob Armstrong. Bids were the second highest average per acre ($93.66) in 22 years, and a bid from Mobil Oil Corp. for a 1,440 acre Gulf tract was the third largest in history for a single tract.

Personal Income Soaring

Per capita personal income in Texas has jumped 52 per cent in the last five years, according to U.S. Commerce Department figures.

The increase (from $4,102 to $6,243) was the largest recorded among the large industrial states and the third largest in the nation, but the state still ranks 26th in personal income.

Texas Courts Speak

Texas Supreme Court has upheld right of consumers to sue manufacturers where product defects are responsible for economic loss.

The Third Court of Civil Appeals, in a brief opinion, found a state law requiring welfare department licensing of homes for children does not interfere with the religious beliefs of evangelist Lester Roloff who operates several homes.

The Metric Morning After

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI)—a concerted effort is underway to help Americans taper on the metric system.

Some radio stations now give the temperature in Celsius as well as Fahrenheit. Some road signs post distances in kilometers as well as miles — that sort of thing.

The big argument for scuttling our present weights and measures (the foot, cubit, butt, firkin, etc.) is that most of them began as approximations.

The cubit, as you may know, was based on the length of the forearm. I hardly need mention what the foot was based on. And I wouldn't even guess what the butt and firkin were based on.

There is strong resistance to switching from the one system to another. But if the metric system were applied to things that are now unknown quantities, I'm sure it would be readily adopted.

For example, it has often been pointed out that we have no precise system for denoting the intensities of hangovers. The units of measurements now in use are even more ambiguous than the cubit and foot were originally.

The most common designations of hangover magnitude are the lulu, the woozer, the really-a-pip, the beaut and the holy moses!

These ratings, although undoubtedly descriptive, lack scientific exactitude.

One way, I think, to expedite the metric familiarization process would be to develop a standard, universal scale for measuring hangovers.

In the metric manner, the hangover scale should run from 0 to 100. Absolute zero would be the complete absence of morning-after symptoms. One hundred would represent total incapacitation.

The figures in between would denote temple-throbbers, earrings, eye-wobblers, tonguecoaters, tooth-looseners and the various other degrees of hangovers.

Letters To The Editor:

Dear Editor,

I read an article in the Wall St. Journal of July 11, entitled "A Series of Blows Jolts FBI's Prestige, Morale, and Maybe Efficiency". It states "Recent revelations and indictments (Agent John Kearney) leaving agents uncertain; orders questioned; we're losing top sources". Lowered public respect for the FBI has devastated morale within the 20,000 employee agency, especially among the 8,400 special agents. These problems are hampering the FBI's ability to carry out its law-enforcement duties.

Agents who were proud of their work don't like to talk about it anymore, they receive threatening phone calls, their children are teased at school. The bureau's image has been damaged through exposure of its tactical and spying activities and alleged abuses against the privacy of individuals and groups that it has considered a danger for about 48 years under J. Edgar Hoover. Since Mr. Hoover's death, concerted efforts have been successful in discrediting and harassing the FBI.

Being an American businessman and concerned citizen, I've always been proud of the job done by "Your FBI, in Peace and War", as they say. Sure, there's going to be a realigning of priorities and steps taken to secure the rights and privacy of individual citizens. But why this all-out attack and demoralizing exposure of our intelligence and security agencies? Of all the mismanaged bureaus in the federal government, hasn't the FBI been one of the best run with an excellent track record? There has been corruption in every single U.S. government agency, including the Department of Justice. Haven't our FBI Special Agents been fine examples of the highest type of dedicated public servants? Sure Mr. Hoover may have been overzealous, and he made some enemies, but he had to in that job. Six Presidents praised his work. I think that he was a great man and most Americans still feel this way.

John J. Kearney, an FBI Special Agent honorably retired after 25 years' service in 1972 was indicted on April 7 in New York. He was charged with setting up wiretaps and ordering mail openings on members of the radical Weathermen. At that time he was supervising Squad 47, a 60-agent special force specifically directed to investigate that terrorist bombing organization.

Twenty-six of its members were on the FBI's Most Wanted List in 1972. Why drag this faithful agent through the mud of indictment and trial just because he was doing his duty to protect the country? Kearney carried out his duties, using the same techniques employed by the FBI and other security agencies for decades. These methods had been approved by Presidents and Attorneys General, and no court had ever held them to be improper, unlawful, or unconstitutional.

Senator Pat Moynahan stated last month that Russian spies are using electronic gear in American cities to monitor our phone conversations by tuning into specific numbers through phone company microwave frequencies. Our government is showing a remarkable tolerance to Soviet KGB agents snooping on American soil, violating the rights of American citizens on a grandiose scale. At least the FBI is on our side.

Why must we always aid our enemies? Whose side are we on anyway? Why should the government spend billions for armed defense, if we don't allow an effective FBI to protect us from subversives, terrorists, spies, criminals, and organized crime at home?

Show them you want protection and give your appreciation for their good work. Send your letters, telegrams, and phone calls today, supporting the FBI and Special Agent John J. Kearney to the White House (202-456-1414); Attorney General Bell's office (202-739-2001), and the offices of House and Senate numbers (202-224-3121).

Very truly yours,

People of Plano:

After a necessary stay in the Plano General Hospital, the question comes to mind, do the people of our fair city realize what a fine and efficient facility it really is? It is staffed with most efficient administrative and nursing personnel who are most considerate and compassionate in their care of patients, attentive in all ways of care and attention! And I speak from personal knowledge and experiences of many other facilities of the Military and V.A.! This hospital certainly deserves support and use; "if necessary."

Plano General Hospital is a facility the citizens can well be proud of for many reasons, more numerous to mention!

Not too far into the future the U.S. Senate is expected to virtually tie itself in knots as it considers courses of action on the proposed new treaties regarding the future of the Panama Canal.

President Carter and the State Department have thrown down the gauntlet in their effort to secure Senate ratification of the new documents which would relinquish full control of the canal to Panama by the year 2000.

Most opinion polls show that a majority of Americans oppose granting outright control of the canal to Panama, a country ruled by a dictator and one with a history of political instability.

We, too, have consistently opposed outright surrender of U.S. sovereignty in the matter, believing the long-term future of the Panama Canal would be more certain under the present arrangement.

Therefore, we are bothered more by what we don't know about the Panama Canal and its future than what we do know.

For instances, who can say what the world situation will be 23 years hence? These days it's difficult enough just to project one year into the future.

The treaty, as set forth by U.S. negotiators, contains its somewhat reassuring features. We do not propose to give up full control of the canal until the year 2000.

By then, the president dictator of Panama, Omar Torrijos, will in all likelihood be overthrown or dead. The current Russian leadership, who some suspect is orchestrating Panamanian effort to oust the U.S., will be gone.

Mr. Carter, if the fates are kind to him, will probably be back in Georgia raising peanuts. Most senators who must now grapple with the issue will no longer be around.

We always worry when it comes to leaving an uncertain legacy to future generations. We owe it to those coming after us to improve on conditions as we inherited them and give them every opportunity to do likewise.

Natural gas plays a vital role in the daily lives of millions of Americans. Its most important basic function is providing heat for millions of homes across the land.

And so, while we usually are opposed to governmental intervention in the free enterprise system, something which has literally life and death consequences for consumers should not be without some controls.

It was then with considerable sadness that we learned of the U.S. Senate's vote in favor of legislation which would completely phase out federal price controls on natural gas.

We lean to the president's proposal, which would allow natural gas prices to rise but retain controls. As Carter said, what we need is "legislation that provides adequate production incentives while protecting the interests of American consumers."

The daring escape from a Filipino prison by two of the most prominent members of the islands' one-time oligarchy make us think that President Ferdinand Marcos' vaunted plan to return democracy to that nation is more rhetoric than fact.

Sergio Osmena III, son of a candidate who opposed Marcos, and Eugenio Lopez Jr., one of the country's wealthiest men, had spent five years as political prisoners in maximum security cells at Fort Bonafacio prison outside Manila. The charges against them were that they had attempted to assassinate Marcos. It is believed in some quarters that the charges were trumped up, and brought by Marcos as a way of stifling political opposition.

Osmena and Lopez are now seeking political asylum in the United States which, if granted, will allow them to continue what they consider to be a fight for "a return to democracy in our homeland," free elections and an end to what they call Marcos' "tyranny." From the evidence, it appears they are entitled to that asylum.

Long Procrastination Ends

By NORRIS WILLATT
UPI-Financial Times
COMO, Italy (UPI) — Belatedly but finally, Italy is entering the color television age.

Full scale color programming is becoming available to Italian viewers this year. It ends a 15-year era in which Italians have gone without a form of entertainment that was standard in the rest of Europe.

Behind this anomaly lies a story of procrastination, intrigue and party political conflict.

The basic cause for the delay was the long and bitter battle for supremacy between the West German PAL and the French SECAM color TV systems.

The battle was joined in the early 1960s when the two systems were competing for the European market.

Germany's PAL won in most of Western Europe, a prime reason being that it is compatible with the systems in the United Kingdom and the United States.

In addition to France itself, the SECAM system was adopted in the Soviet Union and the rest of Eastern Europe and subsequently by some countries in North Africa and the Middle East.

Italy teetered between the two. This was not so much because the government could not make up its mind, but more because of pressure by the proponents of the rival systems.

The state-owned Italian broadcasting corporation, RAI began experimental telecasts using both systems.

From the start, the technical experts favored the PAL system. But their judgment was over ruled as a result of the personal intervention on behalf of SECAM by then President Charles De Gaulle of France.

The government in Rome decided to give SECAM a further trial. As a result, Italy's color TV progress was stalemated through the latter part of the '60s. In 1969, the Italian technical people again decided in favor of PAL.

But the Italian economy was in recession. The politicians decided color TV could be put off until the economy recovered. That was the signal for a new outbreak of competition between SECAM and PAL.

It was not until 1975 that the politicians finally bowed to the judgment of the technicians and ruled in favor of PAL.

It was said that they had also come under strong pressure from Italian firms in the electronics business, who were incensed by the delays and favored the West German system as a way of gaining export markets.

Italians have not been entirely without color TV reception. Most fortunate are those living in the northern part of the country. They can receive color programs from stations in southern Switzerland, Monte Carlo and Yugoslavia.

Reception has been extended further south by private entrepreneurs, who have set up "booster" stations to retransmit the foreign programs as far south as Bologna, Florence, even Rome.

In 1974, the Italian government tried to put a stop to this "invasion" by ordering the transmitters to be dismantled. This decision was overruled by the Italian courts.

So, with authorities worried about comparisons with the domestic black and white TV and Italian firms switching their TV advertising to the foreign networks, Italy is at last moving into the age of color TV.

School Receives Chair

A benefactor in East Texas has contributed half a million dollars to Southwest Texas State University to create the school's first endowed faculty "chair," SWT President Lee H. Smith announced today in a statement issued jointly with Dr. Pence Dacus, vice president for institutional advancement.

Mrs. Louise Lindsey Merrick of Tyler has presented a $500,000 check to SWT to create the "Therese Kayser Lindsey Chair of Literature" in memory of her mother, a noted Texas writer, poet, arts patron and Southwest Texas alumnus.

The late Therese Kayser Lindsey attended Southwest Texas Normal School in the early 1900's. She later studied at the University of Chicago and Harvard University. She is credited with being instrumental in the organization of the Poetry Society of Texas.

Of such "trivia" as the listing of degrees and accomplishments, though, Mrs. Lindsey was contemptuous.

A colorful, creative woman in her lifetime, she declined to discuss her academic credentials. Instead, she told reporters, "A list of universities and courses where I have graduated—what dull reading—the proper study of mankind is man. The proper way to report a writer is to quote him."

Mrs. Lindsey's poetry was printed extensively, and she sought to encourage other writers by her contributions to the Poetry Society of Texas.

For several years, she provided the money for one of the society's annual prizes. Her own poems took awards, including those from the Southern Memorial Society, as well as the Texas society.

Making the announcement of Mrs. Merrick's contribution at an afternoon press conference and reception for the faculty of the Department of English, President Smith said use of the funds donated for the chair would begin this spring with a lecture series.

Teacher-scholars in the field of literature of the caliber and stature to be considered for the teaching chair would be brought in for the lectures. Many of the lectures would be public, allowing the community, as well as SWT students, to benefit from the program.

A selection committee composed of the senior staff of the English Department, will recommend potential lectures and chair holders, Dr. Smith said.

CRIME & JUSTICE

COURSES BY NEWSPAPER

(Editor's Note: This is the eighth in a series of 15 articles exploring "Crime and Justice in America." The articles, developed for "Courses by Newspaper," are being used in conjunction with the criminal justice classes of Dr. Geoffrey Alpert, assistant professor at the University of Texas at Dallas.)

BY JOHN KAPLAN

The drug pusher lurks by school yards and tempts our youth.

The big time gambler bribes our police and corrupts our judges.

The big time gambler bribes our police and corrupts our judges.

The gaudily dressed prostitute is an affront to our morality as well as a spreader of disease.

These images of so-called non-victim crime cause great apprehension in America.

Yet the economic and social costs of enforcing laws against these crimes are also great—perhaps too great compared to their benefits. In 1975, for example, 38 percent of all arrests were for non-victim crimes, putting an enormous strain on our criminal justice system.

Actually, "non-victim" is really a misnomer. The major non-victim crimes—drug offenses, gambling and prostitution—often do have victims: the participants themselves, their families and often the whole society.

It would be more accurate to call these crimes "consensual," to emphasize that those participating in them do so willingly.

The consensual crimes that trouble us most are those in which human weakness, economic incentives toward criminality, and often a basic ambivalence toward the activity among a sizable number of people all interact.

Since those involved rarely, if ever, complain to the police, attempts to suppress these activities have been notoriously ineffective and expensive, causing a substantial drain on the criminal justice system and increasing the social cost of the prohibited activities.

Moral Overtones

The strong moral and emotional overtones of these laws perhaps account for the great reluctance of our legislatures to withdraw the sanctions of the criminal law in these areas. Yet there are reasons to be hopeful that decriminalization will occur.

Fifty years ago, the most important non-victim crime was the violation of Prohibition. While alcoholism and drunkenness are still with us, the corruption and strains on our criminal justice system caused by this crime disappeared after repeal.

Ten years ago, one of the leading non-victim crimes was abortion. Now, although abortion is still a subject of great political and moral concern, the diversion of resources to prosecute "abortion rings" has ended and the number of pregnant women killed in abortions has dropped sharply.

Drug Offenses

Drug offenses, primarily against the marijuana and heroin laws, may be regarded as the prototypes of non-victim crimes today.

The private nature of the sale and use of these drugs has led the police to resort to methods of detection and surveillance that intrude upon our privacy, including illegal search, eavesdropping and entrapment.

Indeed, the successful prosecution of such cases often requires police infringement of the constitutional protections that safeguard the privacy of individuals.

The major charge against marijuana laws is that their enforcement accomplishes little, and at considerable cost. First, though no drug is completely safe, marijuana is simply not very dangerous, at least compared with alcohol.

Second, the lack of significant increase in marijuana use in those states which have "decriminalized" small-scale possession indicates that criminal penalties for such conduct were never very effective.

We simply do not catch a high enough percentage of users to make the law a real threat, although we do catch enough to seriously overburden our legal system. (In the United States, in 1975, there were over 400,000 marijuana arrests—most of which were for small-scale possession.)

Moreover, criminal prosecution for the use of marijuana inflicts a sizable injury on many otherwise law-abiding youths and engenders hostility toward the police. In addition, since many users see no harm in marijuana, they have become skeptical of educational programs designed to lower use of "hard" drugs.

The laws prohibiting the sale of marijuana prevent both a users tax on sales, which could net government at least $500 million at present rates of consumption, and the exercise of controls similar to those of our alcohol licensing system.

Drug Pushers

Most important, legitimizing and regulating the sale of marijuana would weaken the link between marijuana and the more dangerous drugs. Since drug sellers already are threatened with severe penalties if they are caught selling marijuana, they have little to lose, and more profit to gain, by converting their clientele to more dangerous drugs.

Just as prohibition of alcohol did not suppress it but merely turned its marketing over to organized crime, so marijuana prohibition merely turns over the marketing of that drug to drug pushers.

The costs of the heroin laws are quite different from those against marijuana.

The law, by prohibiting importation and sale, has raised the price of heroin far above what it would command in a legal market. But heroin, unlike marijuana, is seriously addicting, and hence the addict must come up with the necessary price of his habit.

As a result, heroin addicts commit a very high percentage of crimes against property in our urban areas—an estimated 25 to 50 percent in New York.

Proposals to ameliorate the heroin laws have focused on providing the drug or a closely related substitute, methadone, to addicts at low prices under medical conditions—thus lessening their need for illegal income.

Gambling

Other costs of enforcing laws against the "non-victim" crimes are illustrated by gambling.

Our effort to prevent people from losing more than they can afford has crowded our courts with gambling cases. The sentences are light—to avoid further overcrowding our jails—but the police are demoralized by the whole process.

According to the National Commission on Gambling, the huge profits from gambling provide the major source of police corruption in the United States as well as the single largest source of income to organized crime.

The final cost of prohibiting gambling is that it prevents hard-pressed state and local governments from earning revenue through taxation or operation of gambling enterprises. It is probably this fact that is changing our legal stance toward gambling. Numerous states are already experimenting with lotteries, off-track betting, and other formerly illegal gambling activities.

A Revolving Door

The other major non-victim crime in our society is prostitution. In most localities there is a little attempt to interfere with the higher class call girls, the "massage parlor" that has become a fixture all over the nation, or even, in some areas, the "houses" that can afford protection.

What little energy law enforcement can afford to devote to the matter is concentrated on street-walkers. For them, prostitution is a revolving-door crime, somewhat like gambling, in which those arrested are typically given minimal sentences and are soon back on the streets.

There is a strong element of hypocrisy in the enforcement of the prostitution laws.

First of all, the customers, even when legally guilty of an offense along with the prostitute, are virtually never prosecuted because of opposition by the commercial, hotel and convention interests on the ground that it would be "bad for business."

Moreover, the police engage in substantial perjury to avoid the charge of entrapment and to obtain sufficient evidence for conviction "beyond a reasonable doubt." And perhaps even more upsetting, the police must often suppress their best evidence because they cannot admit having sex with the prostitute before the arrest.

Finally, the laws against prostitution make more necessary the services of the pimp to arrange bail and police protection for the illegal prostitute.

Several other non-victim crimes, although less troublesome, also deserve note. The pornography laws, the laws against homosexual activities, and, in many states, the law against adultery all establish non-victim crimes whose enforcement is spectacularly ineffectual.

In all of these crimes, a sizable percentage of the public believes that the activity in question is immoral and wishes it stopped. In many cases, however, the next step—making the activity a criminal act—has been taken without thought as to the practical consequences of such laws should they be violated.

Only comparatively recently have we begun to think about weighing the costs of such laws against their benefits.

It is important that we question whether the criminal law is more appropriate than either tolerating the activity or regulating it in some less coercive and expensive way.

Legal Off-Track Betting—Bettors wait in line on opening day of off-track betting in New York City's Grand Central Station. Considered by many to be immoral, off-track betting was illegal in New York until April of 1971. Gambling in other states as well as certain other types of betting in New York is one of several offenses known as "victimless" crimes. (Courses by Newspaper photo).

PCP Gives Cheap, Dangerous High

People label this drug fad everything from "angel dust" to "goon" but it can mean trouble no matter what you call it, the Texas Medical Association says. Phencyclidine (PCP) normally is used as an anesthetic for animals but lately people have been smoking, snorting, eating or injecting it to get a cheap high. The drug has risen from obscurity to fairly wide use in Texas in less than three years.

Often sprayed on marijuana leaves and smoked, PCP is supposed to produce a mellow experience but it can be unexpectedly vicious.

National news reports show several people have died while using it and others have committed murder.

Apparently PCP hallucinations are as unpredictable as LSD trips. Both can cause short or long-term psychological problems.

Even low or normal doses may produce fright, confusion, anxiety or other symptoms lasting anywhere from hours to years. One reason the drug is so unpredictable is that "bathtub laboratories," also called "pig outfits," make most of it and quality varies.

To make the situation even more confusing, many times dealers often say PCP is TH-C, the active ingredient in marijuana, a Texas Department of Public Safety (DPS) official says.

Because of its bad reputation and because it is cheaper to make than some drugs, PCP also is said to be cocaine, mescaline, LSD, heroin or other drugs.

A federal Drug Enforcement Administration (DEA) official says many dealers themselves do not know that the "THC" or other drug they offer is really PCP.

But many people buy PCP on purpose. Within the last three years, PCP has become increasingly popular in Texas, the DEA official says. He estimates that PCP easily is one of the top illegal drugs used by people with advanced schooling, including college.

In fact, these educated people, ranging in age from the mid-teens to the early 30's, seem to be the major group using the drug. The DPS official pegged high school students as the major users. Both stressed that PCP is not used solely by any particular group.

There is no antidote to completely counteract a bad trip on PCP, also known by names including "hog," "wobble," "superweed," "superkools," "crystal joint," "killer weed," "goon," "lovely," "magic mist," "sheets," and "angel dust."

Burial Benefits Available to Vets

The Veterans Administration today reminded former servicemen and women that their families should be made aware of the VA burial allowance available to eligible veterans.

VA provides up to $250 toward the burial expenses of eligible veterans and an additional $150 is available as a plot or interment allowance, if burial is not in a national cemetery or other government cemetery.

These VA payments will be reduced or eliminated in cases where the veteran's employer or a state agency has made such payments.

In cases where a veteran's death is service connected, VA will pay an amount not exceed $800 in lieu of the usual burial allowances.

With the exception of Arlington National Cemetery, burial is available to eligible veterans at all national cemeteries having space, and may also be authorized for an eligible veteran's wife or husband, minor children and, under certain circumstances, unmarried adult children.

Eligibility requirements for burial at Arlington National Cemetery may be obtained from the Superintendent, Arlington National Cemetery, Arlington, Virginia 22211.

VA will provide a headstone or grave marker for eligible veterans, and memorial markers are provided for certain members of the armed services who die on active duty and whose remains are not recovered, or who are buried at sea.

Veterans eligible for the VA plot and burial allowances and for burial in a national cemetery are those discharged under conditions other than dishonorable and who served in the Spanish-American War, Mexican Border period, World Wars I and II, the Korean Conflict, or the Vietnam Era.

Bob Henderson's
State of Enviroment

Dear Bob: The business I'm in requires frequent trips to our local dump. Every time I go there I am amazed at the tremendous amount of trash that is produced by this city. I think that every person in Plago would be a little more concerned about how much they throw away if they could see what I see every day. I recommend that everyone visit the dump-it's a real eye opener.

Dear Reader: A friend of mine jokingly suggested that the solution to our solid waste problem is to take our trash with us when we travel and throw it away in another city. A joke perhaps, but the "out-of-sight, out-of-mind" attitude implicit in the joke is probably the major reason why we generated more than 35,000 tons of waste in Plano last year.

Most of us have little concern about what we throw away. When the garbage truck leaves, we never see our trash again. We think it is gone. But the law of conservation of matter tells us that trash cannot simply vanish. As environmentalist Barry Commoner puts it, in one of his four basic laws of ecology, "everything must go somewhere".

The earth is an enclosed spaceship. Trash does not disappear, it accumulates. Visiting the local dump is perhaps a good idea. It may help us realize that on a spaceship there is no away to throw things to. And that's no joke.

COMMENTARY: The environment—who cares?

Throughout 99 percent of his two million year history, man has had little effect on his environment. In the last several centuries, however, he has changed his environment to the point where it now poses a serious threat to his own health and well-being.

But are we concerned? Who cares that pollution costs the American people about $300 billion a year in damage to health and property?

Who cares that a mother's breast milk is often so polluted that it is dangerous for her to feed to her baby?

Who cares that 12,000 people in this world will die today of starvation?

Who cares that one more species of plant or animal becomes extinct every day?

Who cares that every day more than 120,000 pounds of harmful pollutants are dumped into our air in Plano?

Who cares...? I think everybody does. It's just that few people are saying so.

If you care, let someone know about it. Your elected representatives are eager to know what is on the minds of their constituents. Write them, or call them, and tell them how you feel. I think you might be surprised at how much impact your genuine expression of concern will have.

Bob welcomes questions and comments. Write to him in care of this newspaper.

Berkner Blanked, 16-0, By Wildcats

Plano Dominates In Second Half

Guard C.M. Pier, 55, clears the way for running back Jeff Turner, 34. Turner had 78 yards for Plano on 13 carries Friday in the 16-0 Plano win. Turner was shook up in the fourth quarter and left the stadium by ambulance. (Staff Photo by Richard LaGow).

By ED VOSS
Sports Editor

Final score: Plano 16-Richardson Berkner 0...but that's only half the story. In fact, all of the action came in the second half in this District 13-AAAA contest that was a lot closer than what the score indicates.

In the first half, each team missed a field goal and ended in a scoreless tie. However, in the second period, the Plano Wildcats erupted for all of their 16 points and defensively dominated Berkner.

Both offense and defense scored for the Wildcats as they upped their season record to 5-1-1 and increased their district mark to 4-0-1.

Plano quarterback Steve Ulmer got both Plano touchdowns - the first midway in the third period on a four-yard scamper and the second with only 39 seconds remaining in the game on a 10-yard rollout. Steve Haynes booted extra point conversions following both scores.

The Wildcats' defense also got into the scoring action early in the fourth period. Plano's defense had Berkner backed up on the two-yard line and on an attempted punt, the snap from center Joe Griffin sailed over the head of punter Perry Pierson. The ball flew completely out of the end zone and Plano was awarded a two-point safety.

It was Plano's defense that did a dramatic halftime turn-around. In the first half, Plano's defense gave up 78 yards rushing but only gave up one yard total in the second half.

Berkner was dominated in every way imaginable in the second half as Steve Huber pulled in two pass interceptions, defensive tackle Billy Ray Smith made numerous tackles behind the line of scrimmage and scooped up one Berkner fumble, and the entire unit performed like a sticky piece of bubblegum.

It was the same way with the offense. After a shaky first half, the 'Cats generated 179 yards on the ground in the third and fourth quarters enroute to a 267-yard total. In the first half, Plano was unsure of their offense and only one penetration in the first half and that ended in a missed 36-yard field goal by Gary Brown. That penetration came on a Plano fumble at the 10-yard line.

Plano's only blemish in the contest was a case of the turnovers. Plano had six turnovers divided equally between fumbles and interceptions which prevented added scoring.

Plano finished the game with two members of their starting backfield out of the contest. Jeff Turner left via an ambulance after being knocked cold in the fourth period, and John Gaddis left via the thumb of a game official.

Plano continues to own the inside track to the district championship but one of the biggest obstacles in their path is Richardson High.

Richardson High, victors over Denison 27-26 Friday, will host Plano next Friday, Oct. 21 at 8 p.m. at Eagle Stadium.

Warrior 10th Tops Berkner, 14-7

Williams sophomore Warriors scored twice in the first half and then played a defensive battle the rest of the way in a 14-7 victory over the Berkner Green at Ram-Wildcat Stadium Thursday.

Ronny Mullins got the Warriors on the board in the first quarter following a five-play, 67-yard drive. Mullins scrambled in from the three-yard line with Chris Cobb kicking the point after. The drive by Williams was made up of two big pass plays - one a 45-yard pass from Mullins to Vincent Neal and the other a 18-yard pass from Mullins to Neal.

With the score tied at the end of the first quarter 7-7, Mullins, who had a good night via the airways, hit Cobb on a 45-yard pass play for the final score. Cobb kicked the point after. "I'm real pleased with our boys," said Coach Roy Stone, "they have really worked hard all last year during off season and again this year. Our kids deserve more success than they have been getting, but our technique and execution have been good enough to win, but fumbles and penalties at inopportune times have hurt us." Outstanding players for the Warriors were, Neal who rushed for 171 yards, Charlie James, Mark McGee, and Mark Pyatt who all recovered fumbles and receivers Pyatt, Beardon, Sussan.

On Last Second Play

Williams 9th Loses, 13-9

Behind 6-0 going into the fourth quarter, Williams freshman Warriors scored nine points and with 10 seconds left in the game seemed to have won the ball game with Denton Congress facing what seemed to be the last play of the game at their own 15-yard line. But a 85-yard flea-flicker play by Congress went for a touchdown as time expired with Congress winning it 13-9 at John Clark Stadium. Raef Reed pulled in a Mike Thorhill pass and raced sixty yards into the end zone for the Warriors score. Dave Bowers kicked the extra point to give the Warriors a 7-6 lead in the fourth quarter.

The Warriors' final points came when a host of Williams defensive personal raced across the line of scrimmage and sacked the quarterback for the safety. That put Williams ahead 9-6.

"Over all we played our best game of the year, against a team that was undefeated," said Coach Basil Clark, "We had control of the game until the last play that they scored on from 85 yards out. It was a real heart breaker for our boys after having played so well most of the game."

Outstanding players for the Warriors were, Bowers, David McGee, Reed, Thorhill, Scott Wheeler, Courtney Compass, J.D. Ulmer, Allen Dement and Phil Taylor.

In other games Bowman's Gold team swept Armstrong White by scores of 15-1 and 15-3. The Blue team won by scores of 15-3 and 15-5. Outstanding players were Lyon, Tanner, Notz and Kennedy.

Haggard Record 17-1

Haggard's Middle School eighth grade girls volleyball team improved their record to 17-1 with a triumph over Wilson Thursday night at Haggard.

The Haggard Red team won by scores of 15-7, 11-15 and 15-7, the Blue team won with scores of 15-3, 4-15 and 16-14.

Outstanding players for the girls were Pam Craig, Debbie Hunter, Luann Martin, Marie Streit and Sandy Ilgenfritz.

Coach Vicki Denton's seventh grade Eagles are doing just as well as the eighth grade with a 13-5 record after defeating the Wilson seventh grade by scores of 15-4 and 15-2 in the Red teams' game and the Blue team lost however 16-14, 10-15 and 13-15.

Outstanding players for the Blue team were Susan Elking and Sue Jablonka. Standouts on the Red team were Sherri Robertson, JoAnn Streit, Sheri Pearce and Julie Polen.

Students Jog 51,050 Miles

Plano students jogged 51,050 miles Friday to participate in the national "Run for Fitness for Life Day" and received a commendation from Washington D.C. for their efforts.

Captain James A. Lovell, consultant to the President on physical fitness and sports, sent a telegram to physical education director Rita Barnes of the PISD Friday in recognition of the school district's participation. Plano students ran more miles than students in any other city in America last year and have high hopes of repeating their performance.

In the Washington, D.C. message, Capt. Lovell said: "Congratulations to all those involved in the 'Run for Fitness for Life Day.' I highly commend all the participants and the dynamic leadership of the Plano Independent School District for supporting such important worthwhile activities. Have a great run; you are setting an important example for the rest of America."

Vines Wins, 19-6

Freshmen Beat Turner

Viking freshmen footballers piled 13 points on the scoreboard in the fourth period enroute to a 19-6 win Thursday over Carrollton Turner.

The game was tied at 6-6 until the fourth period when Vines scored twice both on seven-yard plays.

Turner had gone ahead in the game 6-0 in the first period on a breakaway. Vines tied the game at 6-6 on a 10-yard burst by Kevin Garman in the second quarter.

In the fourth period, Jay Don McCullough scooted seven yards for a touchdown. Darin Davis booted the PAT for a Vines 13-6 lead. The Vikings got their insurance touchdown later in the game on a seven-yard pass play from Jim Tassone to Davis. The PAT failed.

"Except for their one long scoring drive, we kept Turner pretty well contained," Coach Tommy Mankins said. "We bounced back from the tough loss of last week. We have an important game with Denton Strickland at 4 p.m. this week (Thursday at John Clark Field.)

The Vines defense played well in allowing only the one Turner touchdown. Wade Nolan grabbed a pass interception and returned it 55 yards. Kevin Garman had two pass interceptions and Ricky Crist recovered a Turner fumble.

Other standouts in the game were James Wilkin-son, Brian Fowler, Roy Trotter, Mark Manders, Matt Scales, Frank Markley and Scott Davis.

Sherman Beats Plano

Sherman spikers surprised Plano Senior High Thursday night in District 13-AAAA volleyball action by winning in split sets.

Coach Ruth Stovall's Wildcats went down in the first game 15-13 but rebounded strongly to win 15-7. In the third and deciding match, the Bear-cats topped Plano 15-12.

"We couldn't pass," Coach Stovall said. "With our offense, if we can't pass we can't win. We just weren't playing at our best."

"This loss creates a toss up in the district because everyone has at least one loss in the second round."

Plano hosts Richardson Tuesday and goes to Berkner Thursday. Both are key games, according to Coach Stovall.

"These games will probably determine the district winner as far as we are concerned in the district race," Coach Stovall said.

Plano posts an 8-4 record in loop play.

In Junior Varsity games, Plano won in split sets. After going down 15-13, the 'Cats roared back and won 15-7 and 16-14.

Haggard Middle School's eighth grade "B" team scored two points in the fourth quarter on a blocked punt but couldn't overcome the 14-point deficit and lost 14-2 to Milliken Wednesday.

Big plays for the Eagles were pass interceptions by Joe Hutchinson and Marcus Lippe. Other standouts were, Greg Lewis who came off the bench in the fourth quarter to quarterback and sparked the offense.

The basketball program will include boys in the third through eighth grade. Teams will be formed by grade and school.

Midlothian Edges Eagles

Allen Loses, 10-7

By KEITH TAYLOR
Sports Writer

Midlothian led the Allen Eagles Friday night 10-0 with 1:30 left in the first quarter and it appeared the Panthers would ground up the Eagles easily. But Allen's defense jelled and the Eagles completely shut off the Panthers the rest of the ballgame, yet came up on the short end of the score, 10-7, at Eagle Stadium.

From the outset of the game the Panthers seemed to move the ball at will. Midlothian, after returning the opening kickoff 39 yards to the Allen 36-yard line, promptly drove the remaining distance in nine plays with Mike Jordan going over from the one-yard line. Gorman Allen added the point after and with 8:18 left in the first quarter the Panthers were already on the scoreboard 7-0.

Allen was forced to punt on their first possession of the game but picked up a first down before having to do so. The punt by Zenford Jones sailed into the end zone and the Panthers took the ball at their own 20-yard line with 5:40 left to play.

Midlothian drove to the Allen 19-yard line where Norman Lankins set up the kicking tee for a 35-yard field goal against a brisk southerly wind. The effort by Lankins was good and the Panthers margin increased to 10-0.

Both teams traded the ball back and forth in the second quarter until Allen drove from their own 17-yard line to the Midlothian 14-yard line. The drive came on big plays such as Mark Potter picking up 16 yards and David Grimes on a 17-yard run down to the 12-yard line.

Two successive plays by the Eagles to get into the Panther end zone resulted in minus two yards. On third down and 12 at the 14-yard line a Steve Marion pass intended for Greg Duncan was stole away by Panther safety man Chris Flynn in the end zone.

Midlothian had the ball four times in the third quarter, three of those possessions were fumbled away to the Eagles.

Allen took over the ball at their own 24 but could get nothing, on their second turnover the Eagles did manage to get their only touchdown of the night after driving 36 yards. Jones got the final 20 yards on six carries. It was Jones' 14th TD of the year. He also led all ball carriers in the game

Allen's Zenford Jones picks up five of the 83 yards he made in the game. Jones scored his 14th touchdown of the season in the third quarter on a one-yard run. The touchdown wasn't enough, however, as the Midlothian Panthers had already done the damage.

with 83 yards.

Only five first downs were made in the fourth quarter with Midlothian picking up four of those. Allen's defense played outstanding in the contest by almost holding the Panthers to less than ten yards the entire second half.

Kenyon Arp, in his first game back in the starting lineup after missing a couple of weeks to an ankle injury, had a good game by making several tackles and recovering two loose Panther fumbles. Charles Beasel, a 220 lb. tackle on the Eagles defensive front, also had a good night stopping Panthers in their tracks.

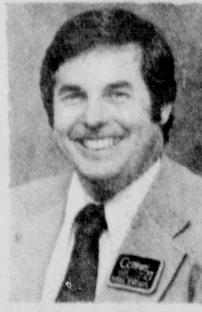

"We're still playing above our heads," said a dejected Coach John Pearce. "We played a team that was really supposed to be something in our district and we stopped 'em. We are only one touchdown away from being 3-0 in district."

A beautiful contemporary by Al Dahl is located at 4220 San Saba Court. Priced in the low $60's, this home features three bedrooms, two baths, a large game room with wet bar and a living-den with center fireplace overlooking a covered patio. This design contains 2,100 square feet.

Ultra-contemporary designs are also available in Los Rios, such as one by builder Wayne Benton. Located at 4301 Country Club Dr., the two-story, three-bedroom, three-bath home features a living-den which opens to a formal dining room, a kitchen which overlooks the golf course, and a game room with wet bar. This home is priced in the upper $60's.

Los Rios Country Club attracts many home buyers with its excellent facilities, such as an 18-hole championship golf course, eight lighted tennis courts, swimming pools and a $2 million multi-level clubhouse with spacious dining room, cocktail lounge, pro shops and locker rooms equipped with saunas. Public recreational facilities are also convenient to Los Rios, with Lake Lavon offering picnicking and water sports only 15 minutes from the community.

In addition, the city of Plano has recently announced a planned wilderness area offering nature trails and lakes which is located just off Park Road adjacent to the northwest corner of Los Rios.

To reach Los Rios, take Central Expressway north to exit 28 and go right on Dallas North Parkway. Follow the signs three miles east. Additional information is available at the Information Center located at the entrance to Los Rios.

Open House

By JAMES M. WOODARD
Copley News Service

Q. Why is the price of lumber increasing so rapidly?

A. Homebuilders throughout the country are very concerned about the rapid rise in costs of lumber and wood products used in the construction of homes.

Those prices increased 40 per cent during the past year — 90 per cent over the past two years. And the price hike rate is increasing.

The reason is a mystery to most housing industry leaders. It's now being investigated by the President's Council on Wage and Price Stability.

When you consider that lumber accounts for 25 per cent of the material costs of a typical home, the impact on consumers is clear. It has been estimated that the increasing cost of lumber and wood has pushed the price of homes up by $1,500 in many areas during the past two months.

Q. Is it true that property taxes are being cut in an Eastern state, and that in the case of apartments the tax cuts must be passed along to tenants?

A. A decision by the New Jersey Supreme Court last summer indicated that the state's reliance on property taxes for funding of public schools was unfair to low income areas.

As a result, the state instituted an income tax law to help generate revenue for schools and subsequently cut property taxes. Beginning this year, owners of residential rental property are receiving property tax reductions. The owners must pass along at least 65 per cent of the resultant savings to their tenants.

Q. How much have home prices increased over the past decade?

A. Since 1968, the median sales price of existing single family homes sold in the United States has doubled.

Exclusive List'nings

By Sheree Stringer

While out making my routine rounds to the real estate offices Thursday, everyone was talking about Plano Title's annual bash that's coming up this month. Everyone is very excited about it because it is supposed to be the party of the year for the real estate people. So, if you have received your invitation, and like having a good time, write it down on your calendar. But be prepared to take off the next day due to a hangover.

Bob Baker, manager of Shirley Becker REALTORS is a ham for publicity. He talked to me for an hour trying to give me newsworthy items for today's column. Some of it was interesting, some of it I could not repeat. (Just kidding, Bob). Roger Davis has come back to their company after being with another agency (one I will not mention). Bob told me Roger knew he was loved at Shirley Becker and came back. The Becker agency is growing enough to add another office in North Dallas. They plan on opening the first of the year.

Betty King and Bill Tillerson of Plano Real Estate also knew how desolate I have become for news. They told me all kinds of success stories about their latest homes they have sold. (Congratulations Darrell. You finally got rid of it.) Betty King has been attending the Dallas Board of REALTORS orientation classes all week. She told me not to tell that unless she passed her course. I feel sure she did, so I'll blab it anyway.

I saw a lot of our prominent REALTORS last Thursday, at the open house of the new restaurant in town, The Safecracker. The restaurant is very elegant. In case you haven't heard, The Safecracker is where the Plano Bank and Trust used to be in Palisades Square. They have turned the vault into the salad bar, and the bank offices are separate dining rooms for private dinner parties. I'm sure all of you who attended found the place very nice. Plano has needed this sort of restaurant for a long time. Go by and see it, I'm sure you will be impressed.

I will be watching the Longhorns play the Razorbacks this weekend. By the time you read this, the game will be over, since they play in Arkansas on Saturday. Being from Razorback country, and an avid fan,.....all you Texas fans watch out.....the HOGS are gonna smear ya!

RODGER DAVIS

HAS RETURNED TO

SHIRLEY BECKER, REALTORS

Rodger Davis is back with Shirley Becker, REALTORS, after a nine month absence, rejoining the fine group with whom he had been associated for some six years.

A seasoned real estate broker, appraiser, and associate member of both the Dallas and Collin County Boards of REALTORS, Rodger was consistently the top salesman with the firm in recent years.

Blending his real estate expertise with civic duties, Rodger has been a President of the Richardson Community Concert Association (now a Director), and serves the Richardson Chamber of Commerce on the Transportation Committee.

Rodger and wife Lee belong to the First United Methodist Church in Richardson, and attend the Pathfinder's Class. Lee is a member of the Altrusa Club of Richardson and is working for Dr. Charles H. Howard.

Transplanted Californians (from Arcadia) some nine years ago, Rodger and Lee call Richardson their home, and Rodger has been most helpful to transferees settling in the North Dallas-Richardson-Plano area.

It's "old home week" at Shirley Becker, REALTORS. We all have a warm glow now that he's back with us - we wanted you folks to know it, too...

Jewelry Is Designed From Old Paintings

GLASGOW, Scotland (UPI) — Want to buy jewelry worn by Queen Elizabeth I?

No, not original pieces, but wonderful copies, produced with infinite attention to detail.

The jewelry is the work of Eric Smith, who copies the designs from masterpiece paintings.

The best seller to date is a solid silver ring set with square smoky quartz, based on a piece in El Greco's portrait, "Lady in a Fur Wrap." Another ring, based on the same portrait, is set with an oval tiger's stone.

A brooch of cultured pearls and smoky quartz is worn by Queen Elizabeth I in a picture by the Italian artist Dederico Zuccaro, painted around 1590.

The 1978 Oldsmobile Cutlass Supreme Brougham is one of eight models in the new line-up for Cutlass including coupes, sedans and station wagons. All offer more fuel efficiency, riding comfort and improved handling for 1978.

Olds New Lineup on Display

Classy Cutlass Highlights Group of Automobiles

Cutlass, Oldsmobile's completely redesigned intermediate, highlights the division's 1978 lineup now on display in Plano at Joe Griffin Oldsmobile.

The division is again offering six distinct car lines -- Starfire, Omega, Cutlass, Eighty-Eight, Ninety-Eight and Toronado -- with 25 models, two less than last year.

The new Cutlass is more fuel-efficient, offers interior and luggage roominess and excellent handling and riding comfort. The average weight reduction for sedans and coupes is 657 pounds.

The goal in redesigning the interior of the Cutlass was improved space utilization while maintaining or improving passenger comfort. Oldsmobile met this goal with increased head and leg room in coupes and sedans. Larger and more efficient trunk space was achieved with a smaller gas tank and the new compact spare tire. This is a 15-inch small cross section tire that comes already inflated. It weighs about half as much as a regular tire and wheel assembly and can safely be driven for at least 2,000 miles. Eight models are offered for 1978. These include a coupe and sedan in the Cutlass Salon and Cutlass Salon Brougham series; Cutlass Supreme, Cutlass Calais and Cutlass Supreme Brougham coupes and a two-seat Cutlass Cruiser station wagon.

The Cutlass Salon

Brougham grille is an eight-section vertical egg crate design. A hood center molding and a stand-up Olds emblem on the front end panel are standard. Wide lower moldings on the front fenders, doors, quarters and behind the rear quarters are standard and the window frames on the sedan are painted black.

The Cutlass Supreme Brougham has the same front end as the Cutlass Supreme except the front end panel has the Brougham name on a brushed chrome background. Standard on this model are bright drip moldings, wide belt moldings, wheel opening, rocker panel and wide lower moldings on front fenders, doors, quarters and rear of rear quarters.

The sporty 4-4-2 option is offered on the Cutlass Salon and Salon Brougham coupes. The grille is blacked out for a specific front end appearance and the wide 4-2-2 stripe is along the lower sides and bottom of the deck lid.

The Cutlass Cruiser shares its front end appearance with the Cutlass Salon Brougham. Drip, window, wheel opening and rocket panel moldings are standard. The deluxe woodgrained vinyl option has bright periphery

ALL-NEW WAGON - Mid-size Chrysler LeBaron Town & Country station wagon is an all-new model for 1978. Luxury appointments include classic wood-treatment styling.

Luxurious Mid-Size Unveiled by Chrysler

The new-generation Chrysler LeBaron will round out its 1978 model lineup with the addition of a Town and Country station wagon, according to Tom Walker, and Jim Bradley, owners.

"The luxurious mid-size wagon, built on a 112.7 inch wheelbase and 206 inches in overall length, should appeal to a wide variety of automotive buyers," Tom & Jim said.

"Traditionally, people have bought station wagons for utility more than for style. Our LeBaron is a new type of wagon—one which will attract the style-conscious and the large car buyer who seeks the comfort of adequate interior room along with plush appointments, and still get very good fuel economy. It Subtle design refinements and consumer-oriented engineering benefits mark the 1978 Cadillacs introduced by Edward C. Kennard, general manager of the Cadillac Motor Car Division and vice president of General Motors, and currently on display at Larry Langes Pontiac Cadillac in McKinney.

Kennard said Cadillac will offer seven standard and two "Special Edition" cars for 1978, in the familiar De Ville, Fleetwood, Eldorado and Seville models.

The 1978 version of America's most popular luxury car, Cadillac Coupe de Ville, reflects the overall design characteristics and dimensions that generated industry-wide attention and customer approval last year. A fresh rear appearance is accomplished with new rear bumpers with taillamps and side marker lights incorporated in the bumper outer. Paint accent stripes extend across the deck lid. After production begins, all De Ville models will offer an optional Elk grain padded vinyl roof, with custom trimmed backlight in a "tucked" effect. Shown here with optional locking wire wheel discs, the 1978 Cadillac Coupe de Ville is available in 21 distinctive colors and 16 optional vinyl roof selections.

'78 Chevy Totally Redesigned

Increased Performance, Fuel Economy in Mid-Size

Chevrolet will display its completely redesigned 1978 car lines—Malibu Classic, Malibu, and Monte Carlo—and a new, longer, four-door Chevette model at the Texas State Fairgrounds, Dallas, Texas, through October 23, according to Carter Chevrolet's Tom Molloy.

The Malibu series is roomier inside and has more luggage space than the 1977 models even though they are shorter and narrower than their predecessors. Chevrolet's highly successful Monte Carlo also has more interior room and all mid-size models have increased fuel economy.

The subcompact Chevette has a new four-door hatchback model for 1978 and an update of the two-door hatchback introduced in the fall of 1975. The four-door Chevette has more rear seat legroom and the 1.6-litre L4 engine, standard on all models, improves performance and fuel economy.

Corvette celebrates its 25th birthday during 1978 with its most noticeable change in years—a new aerodynamic look. Refinements in comfort, convenience, improved utility and increased operating range enhance the appeal of America's only authentic sports car.

America's most popular car line, the full-size Caprice Classic and Impala series, has new front and rear styling and mechanical improvements for 1978 and retains last year's interior roominess and fuel efficiency.

1978 Innovations Detail New Buick

Buick Motor Division has released the details of its 1978 Regal Sport Coupe, a personalized luxury car powered by a turbocharged V-6 engine which can be seen at Williams Buick-Opel in McKinney.

The Regal, one of General Motors' new generation of intermediate size cars, is nearly a foot shorter and approximately 560 pounds lighter than its 1977 counterpart. "Buick, which pioneered such innovations as the torque converter transmission and directional signals, assumes a new pioneering role in 1978—its 75th anniversary—the turbocharging of a small engine for a family car," said David C. Collier, general manager and a vice president of General Motors.

Buick will offer the turbocharged V-6 in two models at the start of production, the sport coupes in the Regal and LeSabre series. It will be available in both models with either a two-barrel or four-barrel carburetor.

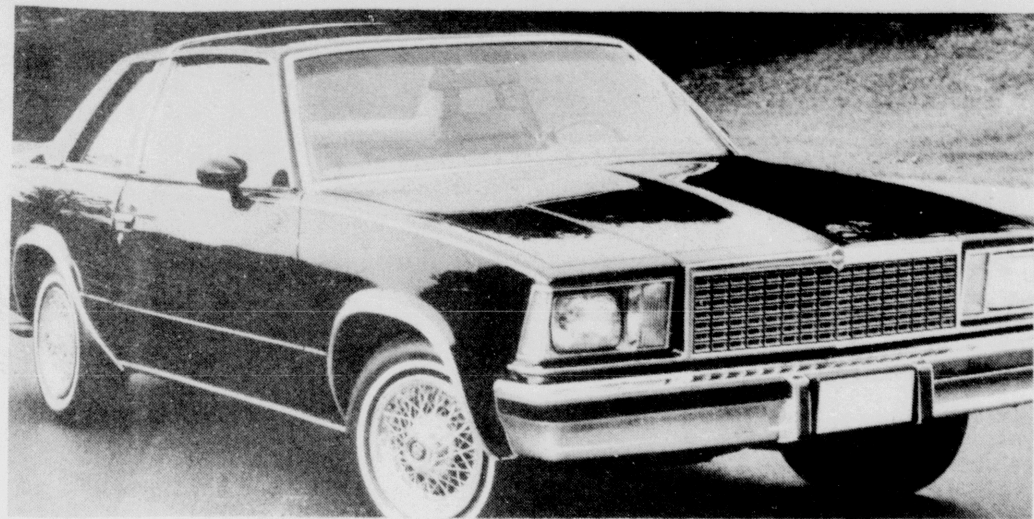

Collier emphasized that the turbocharged V-6 is of the new even-firing design and will be the only engine available in those models. It is a production version of the

Raceway Flagman

Senior Has Strange Hobby

By ELAINE APOSTOLA GARDINER, Maine (UPI)
— At the age of 12 Cary Veilleux was out on the speedway keeping close tabs on the racing cars zipping past him. Today, at 17, he is one of the youngest racecar flagman in the country.

The Gardiner High School senior become interested in his challenging "hobby" at the age of 11 when his father took him to the Wiscasset Speedway.

"I met Larry Hall, the flagman there, and told him I was interested in the job," Veilleux said. He asked Hall what type of experience or schooling was needed.

"Larry told me there was no special training needed, just on the job training," he said.

So at 12, Veilleux became an assistant flagman at Wiscasset under the direction of Hall. At 14, he began flagging the smaller divisions on his own. He said flagmen usually are 25 to 40.

A keen, sharp mind is essential for a good flagman since his decisions can mean disqualification to a driver, said Veilleux, now head flagman at Unity Raceway.

The decisions must not only be made accurately, but they must also be made promptly — because his actions could have an effect on the safety of the drivers.

Veilleux said there was one race where he felt he made an exceptionally good call.

"I could tell this car was going to crash just by the angle of the wheels and the way it was headed.

Pete Murphy - Service Manager

Pete Murphy grew up around automobiles and there isn't much, if anything, he doesn't know about them. At least that's the word from his employer, Larry Lange Pontiac and Cadillac, and from his trusted customers who repeatedly return to him for car care.

Murphy has been with the same dealership for the past 35 years. He started working at age 17 when his father was the shop foreman before him.

"I really started working sooner than that as part-time help and went to the shop with my dad many years before that," Pete said, adding that he had grown up in the shop.

Murphy was born in McKinney and lives just outside the city limits now with his wife, Lou. Three children, two boys and a daughter, are married. Murphy said that one of his sons did work for awhile in the shop, which made it the third generation working for the same dealership—except, he added, it used to be Packards and now it's Cadillacs.

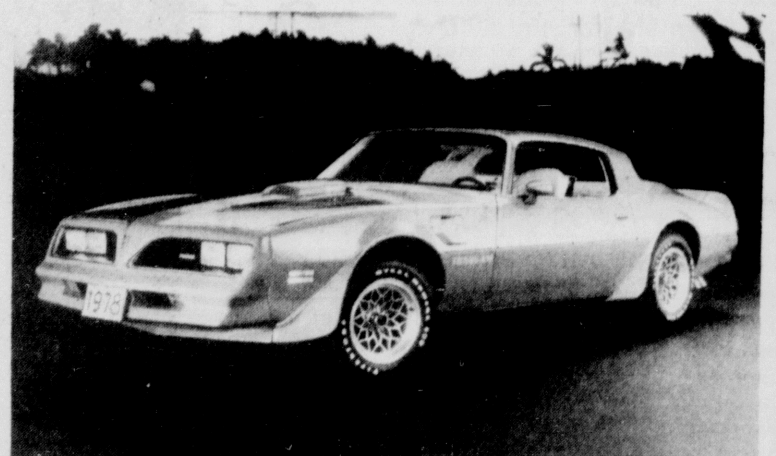

Five years ago, the Pontiac Co. gave Murphy a service manager's ring which has a diamond, to honor him for his 30 years of service, and for the past two out of four years, he has won the service manager's yearly award for outstanding workmanship in the Dallas area.

Murphy, in his capacity as service manager, usually does not actually do the work on most automobiles, but did admit that there are many people who have been coming to the shop for years who want his personal touch, and he makes himself available to them. Otherwise, a crew of 12 handle the actual labor.

"We work on all makes and all models and we give good service," Murphy said and added that Lange has one of the most modern buildings (it's about five years old) and the most modern shop facilities anywhere around.

He said this is the third location for hobbies and he figures the nearest he comes to having a hobby is his farm on which he raises cattle, and he said he doesn't see retirement from the shop in the near future.

new grille with vertical bar design and a bright bead around each grille opening. Gray bumper rub strips with two white stripes are standard. Rear quarter side markers are incorporated into the standard body side moldings and the rear bumper vertical pads have a simulated reflex with Olds emblems.

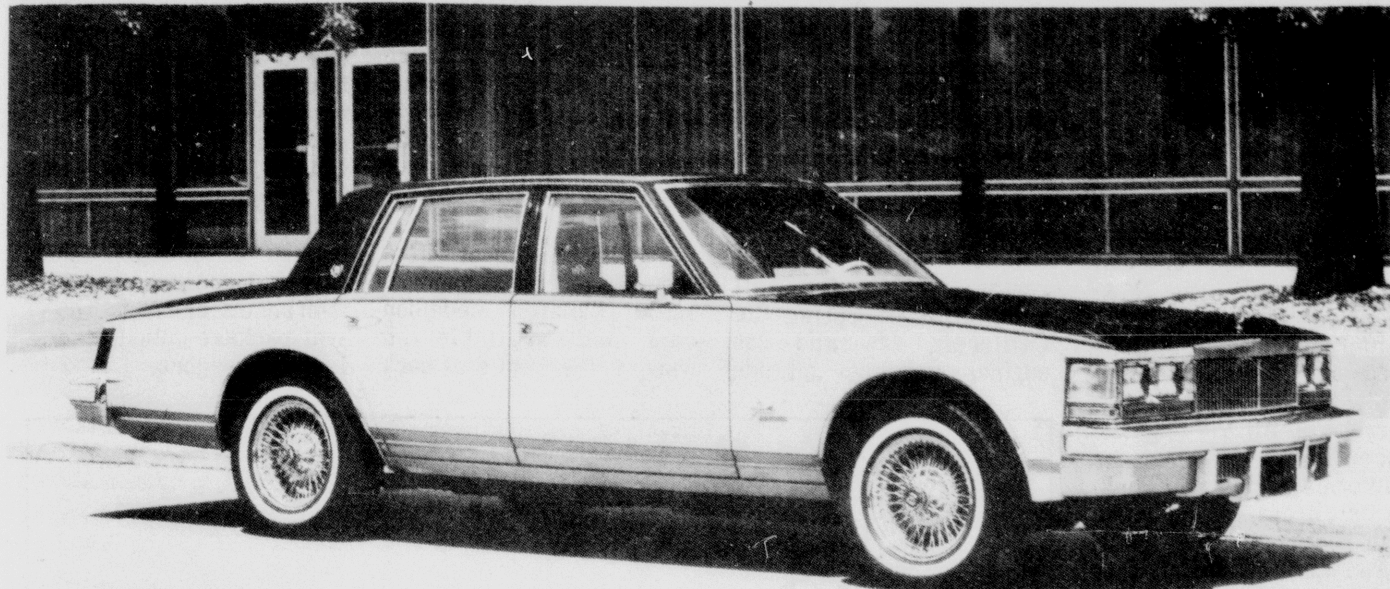

Again the Toronado has the MISAR (Micro-processed Sensing and Automatic Regulation) Electronic Spark Timing as standard equipment. The system uses an on-board pre-programmed micro-processor to monitor and adjust ignition timing as determined by engine vacuum, coolant temperature and engine speed.

The standard Toronado engine is the 403-cubic-inch four-barrel V-8.

The 1978 Oldsmobile Cutlass Supreme Brougham is one of eight models in the new line-up for Cutlass including coupes, sedans and station wagons. All offer more fuel efficiency, riding comfort and improved handling for 1978.

—Cadillacs Most Imitated in World

The 1978 Cadillac Seville Elegante emphasizes the versatility of this international size Cadillac with its distinctive blend of elegance and sportiness. Available in two color combinations, two-tone brown or black and platinum, the Elegante exterior design is highlighted by a fully-painted metal roof, chrome accent moldings, wire wheels and unique Elegante scripts. The interior is plush, even by Seville standards and features leather-vinyl door and seat trim with segments of perforated leather and suede-like accents. A center console includes courtesy lights, fold-down armrest, pen, writing tablet and provisions for a tape storage cabinet or telephone installation. The steering wheel rim is covered in either gray or saddle leather, matching the interior color combination. Cadillac plans to produce 5,000 Seville Elegante models during 1978.

added. "Our designers concentrated on those items that make Cadillacs the most imitated cars in the world."

He said basic dimensions, weight and overall appearance of the 1978 Cadillacs are virtually identical to the redesigned model lineup that generated such excellent public approval in 1977.

Kennard said, "Our DeVille series again includes the Coupe and Sedan, America's most popular luxury cars. We expect a very brisk sales year with our Fleetwood Brougham, Eldorado Coupe and Seville models. In addition, Cadillac's two Limousines are again offered with their popular new appearance."

The Cadillac general manager reported 1978 Cadillac DeVille, Brougham, Limousine and Coupe and Sedan de Ville

Eldorado models have a new, bolder design grille. All except the Eldorado utilize new rear bumpers with vertical tail lamps incorporated in the bumper outers.

Seville rear lamps are individualized with a chrome insignia, and the paint accent stripe is extended across the deck lid to combine with new bumper guards for a wider, lower rear appearance. Exterior opera lamps are available on the 1978 Seville, except Elegante models.

After production begins, Cadillac will expand its use of elegant padded "Elk" grain vinyl top material to include all models except the Seville, which retains its "Tuxedo" grain padded mounting.

The second specialty car, Kennard unveiled is the Seville Elegante, which bespeaks the inherent luxury and versatility of Cadillac's international size automobile. It is elegant and sporty at the same time.

Available in two-tone shades of brown, as well as black with platinum, the Elegante displays distinctive scripting, full wire wheels, a fully-painted metal top and specially-styled exterior moldings.

According to Cadillac's general manager, "The Elegante package was researched at auto show displays for two years, and received with great enthusiasm by our most demanding, discriminating prospects and owners. We plan to build 5,000 Seville Elegante models during 1978."

Interior design for the 1978 Cadillacs is essentially unchanged from last year. Six-way power seat controls are consolidated with other switches on the left-hand armrest of all 1978 DeVille, Brougham and Limousine models, and the mirror control is moved forward on the armrest.

All 1978 Cadillacs, except for Seville, are powered by the 425 CID (7.0 Litre) V-8 models for 1978 now have the optional padded vinyl top custom-trimmed for a "tucked" effect bordering the back window. In addition, these cars and Fleetwood Broughams are offered with an optional package featuring chrome moldings, rear deck accent stripes, and body side moldings color keyed to the car's exterior color.

Wire wheel discs are available with integral locking devices to deter theft. For the first time in 1978, Cadillac features full chrome plated wire wheels as an option on DeVille, Brougham and Seville models. These wire wheels, with a hexagonal center hub and Cadillac crest insert, also feature theft deterrent mounting.

All 1978 Cadillacs, except for Seville, are powered by the 425 CID (7.0 Litre) V-8 engine introduced in 1977. The Seville utilizes the 350 CID (5.7 Litre) Electronically Fuel Injected V-8 engine, the only powerplant Seville models have ever used.

Cadillac engineers have developed a new Electronic Spark Selection Control for the 1978 Seville. This system, when added to the High Energy Ignition system, automatically advances or retards engine spark as situations dictate, resulting in estimated highway fuel economy improvements of about one mile per gallon on the 1978 Seville.

A new Electronic Load Leveling System is standard equipment on Brougham, Eldorado, Limousine and Seville models, and an available option on DeVille series cars.

An electronic sensor determines when load leveling is necessary, and a green instrument panel indicator light tells drivers when the "Level Ride" compressor is activated.

The Cadillac radio assortment for 1978 includes AM-FM Signal Seeking Stereo as standard equipment on all models.

For the first time this year, Cadillac is offering an optional AM-FM Stereo radio with both 40 channel citizens band controls and integral eight track tape player.

A new radio option is available in limited quantities on Brougham and Seville models, providing precise electronic tuning and frequency selection, along with a digital display of frequency and time, a built-in eight track tape player and signal seeking and station scanning features.

Kennard said Cadillac engineers have released the popular "stowaway" spare tire with inflator as an optional selection on Limousine models in 1978, and that the open-air feeling of Cadillac "Astroturf" and "Sunroof" options are available on all models except Limousines.

GM Announces '78 Diesel Engine

The General Motors 5.7-litre V-8 diesel engine is offered as an option on three 1978 Oldsmobile models—the Eighty-Eight, Ninety-Eight and Custom Cruiser.

The engine shares many dimensions with the 350-cubic-inch gasoline V-8 which provided the starting point for the diesel conversion.

Many of the major components—block, heads, crank, pistons and rods—have been strengthened to handle the higher compression ratios.

Ignition in the GM diesel takes place in a pre-chamber added to minimize emissions, noise and smoke. Inside each pre-chamber there is an electric glow plug to assist in starting the engine. Dual 12-volt batteries provide the energy and the additional power for starting.

The diesel "wait to start" period is just a few seconds at 75 degrees Fahrenheit, 35 seconds at 32 degrees and about 60 seconds at zero degrees. Cold starts have been made at temperatures down to minus 10 degrees Fahrenheit without the use of a block heater.

The Oldsmobile diesel cars use number two diesel fuel above 20 degrees Fahrenheit and number one below that temperature.

The wait to start period is monitored by an electronic device that signals the driver with a small light in the instrument cluster when the engine is ready to start.

The fuel injection pump controls ignition by timing and metering the amount of fuel delivered to each cylinder. A rotary distributor-type injection pump is used. It performs for the diesel essentially the same functions as the distributor and carburetor in a gasoline engine. Timing of the injection pump will be permanently set at the factory.

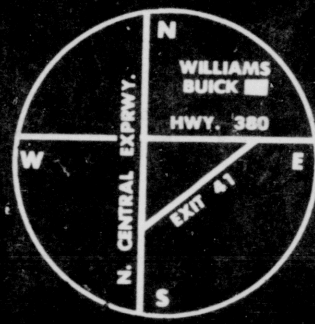

The diesel "wait to start" period is just a few seconds at 75 degrees Fahrenheit, 35

CAR CARE

HELPFUL TIPS TO SAVE YOU MONEY

PREPARING YOUR CAR FOR WINTER

Now is the time to get ready for winter, and a couple of hours spent checking your car's cooling system will pay dividends in peace of mind later on.

ONE WAY TO AVOID AUTO FAILURE in cold weather is by replacing worn or defective belts and hoses.

Failure of two critical components of the system—belts and hoses—will usually result in a disabled car, say experts at Dayco Corporation, so a few extra minutes examining these critical components may be the difference between a running and non-running car.

The "fan belts" under your hood do much more than just drive the fan. They also operate —

• Your water pump
• Your alternator or generator
• Your power steering pump
• Your air conditioning compressor, and
• Your smog pump.

Belts should be replaced, say Dayco engineers, if they show any signs of separation on the cover, a badly scuffed and worn cover, a glazed running surface or cracks on the bottom surface. Belts that "squeal" are probably undertensioned; if they continue to "squeal" after tightening, they should be replaced.

Auto hoses are equally critical. When a hose fails, the result is loss of coolant and overheating of your car's power plant, which can lead to engine failure.

Dayco engineers recommend changing your hoses every 24 months as part of winterizing operations. Hoses should be replaced earlier if:

• The hose looks and feels soft and spongy
• The skin of the hose is ruptured, or
• You can see a wire perforating the outer tube.

Knowing the signs of wear on belts and hose—and knowing how to replace them yourself—can save you not only annoyance but hard cash. To receive Dayco's simple guide to changing automotive belts and hose, "The Belt and Hose Book," write to: Dayco Corporation, Dept. P12, 335 West First Street, Dayton, Ohio 45402.

The study of man and his social relations within his environment and the study of the workings of the internal combustion engine and complementary systems are so diverse that it would be hard to imagine someone actually tackling both simultaneously.

However, Barbara Laughlin, a doctoral candidate and anthropologist at the University of Michigan, and a member of the U.S. Army Reserve, is a master of both.

As a member of the Army Reserve's 350th Evacuation Hospital in her home town of Canton, Ohio, Pvt. Laughlin spends one week-end per month making sure that the jeeps and trucks assigned to her unit are in top running order.

How does an anthropologist feel about being a mechanic? "I really like it and plan to stay in the Army Reserve for a long time. Working on two-and-a-half ton and half-ton trucks is something I really enjoy."

"When I joined the Army Reserve my original idea was to conduct an organizational study of Reserve units throughout the state of Ohio," she said. "One of my findings was that there are more women in the Army Reserve than I had expected, and more are joining every day." Pvt. Laughlin found that two basic reasons account for this new interest by women. The first being the educational opportunities offered by the Army Reserve and secondly, the opportunity for good part-time incomes.

Pvt. Laughlin, anthropologist/grease monkey, is just one of thousands of women citizen-soldiers who are serving their nation and communities.

Today more and more women Reservists are working in jobs such as deep-sea divers, law enforcement officers and parachute riggers. The Army Reserve also has a special program tailored to fit the needs of women with civilian skills who have no prior military experience. The Civilian Acquired Skill Program allows women to profit from work experience the Army Reserve can utilize in such skill areas as personnel administration, nursing, dental hygiene, data processing, and laboratory technology. Enlistment under the program brings higher initial rank and rate of pay.

Women can learn more about the opportunities offered by the Army Reserve by calling toll-free (800-433-1231). In N.Y. State (800-243-6370).

—Lebaron Wagon Has Wide Appeal

ALL-NEW WAGON - Mid-size Chrysler LeBaron Town & Country station wagon is an all-new model for 1978. Luxury appointments include classic wood-treatment styling.

has simulated wood-treatment styling reminiscent of the classic Town and Country wagons of the 40's and 50's.

"Chrysler LeBaron Town and Country wagon buyers will include people coming from full-size cars, moving up from smaller cars, and replacing larger station wagons. We know its size and comfort are desirable, and we expect its popularity to grow quickly."

The four-door wagon, which is 72.8 inches wide and 55.7 inches high, has seating positions for six passengers. The fixed-window liftgate is counterbalanced by gas pressure cylinders. A power release liftgate is optional.

The LeBarons, originally introduced with a 318 V-8 Electronic Lean Burn engine, are now also available with a 225 2-barrel Super Six engine or optional 360 CID 2-barrel V-8. LeBaron engines for California and high altitude areas are the 225 1-barrel Six; a 318 V-8, and the 360 4-barrel V-8. All V-8 engines, excepting those for California and use in high altitude areas, are equipped with Electronic Lean Burn.

Automatic transmissions are standard on all LeBaron models with the 360 engine and optional on other engine combinations. The Over-drive-4 manual transmission (N.A. in California or high altitude areas) is standard with the 225 Super Six and the 318 V-8.

A lock-up torque converter, new for all automatics excepting the California 225 and 360 engines and high altitude cars, will lower transmission operating temperature during highway operation and is designed to improve fuel economy at highway speeds by 1 to 1½ miles per gallon over earlier automatics.

A divided 60-40 seat with a center armrest is standard on all LeBaron Medallion cars and available on wagons. The front seat back thickness has been recontoured and trimmed differently to provide more rear seat roominess without sacrificing front seat comfort.

There is an optional interior trim package of leather 60-40 seats, shag carpeting and premium door trim panels, and a cloth 60-40 seat package option for the LeBaron wagons.

Chrysler Presents Volare

The Plymouth Volare, Chrysler's 1977 sales leader, will be offered in a single series instead of three for 1978, but with new decor packages and options to allow buyers full expression of their tastes, according to Tom Walker and Jim Bradley of Carriage Chrysler-Plymouth.

"The 1978 Volare line will include the coupe, sedan, and two-seat wagon, the number one selling wagon in America," said Walker.

"Keeping to a single line allows buyers the flexibility to mix or match the new Custom and Premier interior and exterior trim packages along with the present popular options, such as the Landau or T-Bar roof, and entirely new options this year.

"The packages have been designed to provide even greater values to customers than comparable 1977 models and to let them order the features they want," he said.

For the sporty car enthusiast, there is a variety of optional dress-up packages to give a customizing touch to the Volare coupe. These include Road Runner, Super Coupe, Street Kit Car, Sport Pak and Fun Runner packages.

Basic to the new exterior look of the '78s is the treatment of the grille, the park-turn lights, and taillamp styling. New applique detail covers the lower panel of the deck between the taillamp with the Custom and Premier exterior packages.

On the interior, optional bucket seats with center armrest are now available for all body styles, and the bucket seats have a new low back with an applied headrest.

Newly-designed thin-back front seats are being introduced on the 1978 models for the optional 60-40 individual seats with center armrest.

The Volare two-door coupe and the Road Runner feature a "Spectrum" interior trim option. Bucket seats are in black and white "Topeka" cloth and vinyl with yellow, orange, and red accent bands. There are new unique door trim panels and the black loop carpet covers the floor and extends to the lower door trim panels.

The new softer seats, optional for most Volares, provide easier entry to and exit from rear seats plus more knee room for rear seat passengers.

There is also more room in the redesigned trunk area. With a space-saving spare tire, trunk volume in coupes is almost two cubic feet (56.6 cm³) more.

While the body sizes remain the same as the 1977 line, various body and chassis components have been redesigned, modified or eliminated to obtain lighter, more fuel-efficient automobiles. The greatest single reduction, 23 pounds (10.4 kg), was achieved by using high-strength steel for front and rear bumpers.

Supplementing the customary seven-step dip-and-spray treatment for corrosion resistance are full front wheelhouse plastic splash shields and galvanized sheet metal for outer door panels. The inner and outer panels of the steel liftgate on the wagons are also made of galvanized steel.

New options for the 1978 Volare include CB radios integrated with AM or AM-FM-stereo radio systems, a digital clock, an intermittent windshield wiper system, performance-oriented 70-series aramid fiber-belted radial tires with raised white letters, and new color combinations.

The standard powerplant for the 1978 Volare coupe or sedan is the popular 225 cubic inch, one-barrel, six-cylinder engine. A 318 V-8 with Electronic Lean Burn System is optional.

Super Six, an optional 225 two-barrel engine on sedans and coupes, is standard on wagons. Another option is the 360 two-barrel V-8, except for California and high altitudes.

LIFE SAVER

A total of at least 27,000 lives have been saved in the first three years since the inception of the 55-m.p.h. speed limit, announces the National Safety Council.

YOUNG AT HEART - The 1978 Plymouth Road Runner has styling certain to appeal to young buyers. New options include CB radios, integrated with AM or AM-FM stereo systems.

All have the 2.5-litre L-4 as standard with the 3.8-litre V-6 available as an option. A new grille treatment accentuates the distinctive Pontiac front appearance of the Sunbird. Popular Sunbird options include a luxury trim group, the Rally RTS handling package and the Formula Appearance Package, available on all models except the Safari.

Pontiac's sporty Firebirds are available in four models for 1978: the regular Firebird, the stylish Esprit and the performance-oriented Formula and Trans Am. A new grille and new radio options, including an integral AM-FM-CB radio and an AM-FM stereo radio with cassette tape player, are offered on the 1978 Firebirds. During National Business Women's Week, more than 170,000 members of the National Federation of Business & Professional Women's Clubs which is composed of 3800 clubs in 50 state federations and federations in Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands, will join hands with a quarter of a million working women in more than 50 countries to spotlight the accomplishments of working women past and present and focus community attention on the place working women have in society.

BPW projects its efforts in the interest of all working women to help women to become enlightened on topical subjects, to endorse qualified women for policy-making positions and public offices, to guarantee equal rights and the elimination of far-reaching discrimination against women. BPW extends educational opportunities, opportunities for leadership experience, career development, personal improvement, legislative involvement and international understanding.

Membership is open to all women who are actively engaged in a business or profession.

It would be very bad not to be friendly when I have readers like you, Marian. Thank you so much.

Somewhere between "Did you make your dress?" and "You did? You're kidding!" is a lot of work. Through trial, error and lots of practice you have learned to put in a professional hem, turn a neat collar, grade seam allowances and put in a sleeve that doesn't pucker, pleat, twist or cut off the circulation in your arm.

There is a lot of pride in finishing a well-made garment, and you can do it — yes, you can — if you follow the rules:

1 — Mate pattern and fabric carefully.

2 — Pre-wash and pre-dry washable fabrics, zippers, trim, interfacings (fusibles have separate rules) and linings, etc.

3 — Use the right size needle, the right thread and the proper machine tension for your fabric.

4 — Alter pattern for a good fit before cutting.

5 — When cutting, follow the grainline! Do not start cutting until all pieces are laid out, checked and re-checked.

6 — Stitch each seam as if you were going to be judged.

7 — Don't be afraid to be a "ripper." If it isn't right, do it again — and again — and again.

8 — Press each and every seam before it is crossed by another.

9 — Do not leave out such things as interfacing, linings and hand work just because it is "a little trouble."

10 — Baste and try on. And once is not enough.

There are more rules, but these should be enough to get you started (or make you hate me for mentioning it).

Dear Betty: Have enjoyed your friendly and helpful column for quite some time. Love the warm, goodwill feeling between you and all your readers. This is the first time I've had something to contribute. I am enclosing a sample of some nylon thread available through the small mail-order catalogs. I haven't had a chance to test it on metal-shank buttons yet, but it is really tough! Loads of continued success! — Marian A. Mogel, San Francisco.

A high school friend and I recently were talking about the good old days.

"You're a writer," he said, "You ought to write about what it was like to be a kid in the fifties."

A lot has already been written about yards of petticoats, Elvis Presley records, hot rods, and all that, but my friend wasn't talking about that anyway. He was referring to the surprise life turned out to be for most of us, after the grand expectations we were raised with.

I've thought about that, not only in terms of a generation of people, but in terms of the current generation of women. Most of us never expected to become the adults we are today, and we never expected to raise our children the way we did. Much of what happened, most of the unrest, protest, the rallying for change, was done not only for our own benefit, but for our children.

Because I have daughters about the age I was then, I also think about what it must mean to them to have been the beneficiaries of the peaceful fifties and the revolutionary sixties.

It's been nearly 19 years since we were catapulted out of high school into an exploding world. A lot has happened, not only to me, but to my daughters as well, for they've been with me during most of the journey. Betty Friedman would say "It Changed My Life," but for us, it has been our lives — change, rapid and unrelenting change.

I diapered babies while watching John F. Kennedy discuss the Cuban crisis on television. We were in the South when the freedom riders disappeared and the fight against racism peaked; in San Francisco in 1965 when the flower children gathered there and spoke out for peace. The youngest girl graduated from kindergarten the week I graduated from college, and that was shortly after the Kent State tragedy. The children helped me launch a career, and we rushed headlong into the emerging feminist movement.

I've watched and listened to my own daughters, and the girl children of my friends. We've tried to make things different for them, and we can only wonder if they, themselves, will be different.

In some ways they are, and in others, they are not.

Our Children

By DR. WILLARD ABRAHAM
Copley News Service

Q. Our teen-ager is the laziest kid you've ever seen. He's 16, stronger than an ox, and spends all of his time out of school goofing around with his friends, listening to the loudest records in the world (they just can't be considered as music!), and generally wasting his time.

When I ask him to do something — cut a branch off a tree, take out the garbage or feed the dog, for example — you'd think it was the end of the world.

He's really good for nothing. Suggestions please? A. It's late to get started, but since it will never be any earlier, you'll have to begin now.

A few approaches that other parents use successfully include these: Tell him you need his help; use his allowance as reinforcement for "good deeds" around the house; withhold the car keys when he doesn't come through; hold his friends up as an example (if they do help around their houses).

You might get some additional ideas from his school counselor if he or she knows your son well enough to recognize what might work with him.

Q. In our state the medical people have worked out some kind of telephone network so that people can call in with questions and get a taped reply. It's free and very helpful.

No group needs advice and practical help more than parents do. Don't you think it would be a good idea to provide them with a service like that?

A. Yes, I do, and so does a company called "Teletronix" which already has it available.

It is being tried on a selective, experimental basis, and can be purchased by libraries, preschools, churches and others. Its emphasis is on the needs of parents of young children, with topics like discipline, getting ready to read, the working mother, the single parent family, learning disabilities, sex education and many others.

You can probably obtain more information by writing to "Teletronix" at 710 Brookside, Redlands, Calif. 92373.

Impressions

by Judy Monzingo

Like most of Plano, I have been enjoying the early cold snap this week. Unlike most of Plano, however, I have had no heat in my apartment.

I didn't know what it meant when they told me, upon leasing the apartment, that the units do not have individual heat and air controls. I do now. It means that during the hot weather you can control how much cool air you get and during the cold weather you can control how much warm air you get. But during the transitional weather, like now, you freeze or burn up, depending on whether it's an Indian summer or an early winter.

I woke up at 4:30 a.m. Tuesday shaking with cold. I stumbled over to the vent in the bedroom to turn on some warmth, and ZAP! I was hit in the face by a blast of cold air. Thereupon, I donned a second long flannel gown and a pair of knee socks, added my camping-out blanket (which smells rather strongly of camping-out odors) to the growing mound of covers on my bed and climbed back in. It was then I discovered I had so many quilts and blankets on the bed I couldn't turn over. Now this didn't matter so much until I got a cramp in my leg. Anyway, you get the picture. I dragged in to the office about 10 a.m. that day, having finally fallen asleep from exhaustion from the effort exerted trying to turn over under all my blankets about 6:30.

I called the apartment office the next morning to find out when we're going to get some heat and was promptly informed that they can't keep converting back and forth from air to heat, and they're betting it's going to warm up again. They suggested I turn on my oven and open the door if it became too uncomfortable in the apartment.

I am now seriously considering bringing suit against the complex for conspiracy to commit pneumonia.

Ah, well, the cold weather does have its advantages.

For example, if your car air conditioner is broken you can now go to work and arrive dry. Or you can take a hot shower in the morning and steam up the cold bathroom mirrors so you don't have to look at yourself.

You can drag out last year's winter wardrobe and feel like it's all new again because you haven't worn it for six months. And, the biggest advantage, of course, is that this weather is very conducive to snuggling and fireplaces and hot chocolate, separately or all together.

The hot chocolate and fireplace I can take care of. Any volunteers for snuggling?

Markita Thompson of Plano really celebrated her birthday in a big way this year. She sent me a note this week with a photo attached of herself with Rick Nelson.

I may be dating myself when I say I can remember when he was the hottest thing on the youth scene. Too bad the photo wouldn't reproduce so you could see how lucky Markita was.

It seems she was pictured with him in December, 1958, issue of LIFE magazine, as she had served as his official hospitality hostess when he was on tour in October of that year.

He was appearing at Granny's in Dallas on her birthday this year, and she was able to get into his dressing room with her husband Bill. There he autographed the issue of LIFE she has saved all these years and gave her a birthday kiss.

She says he was better looking than she remembered him. I was only 7 years old in 1958, so I don't remember exactly how he looked then, but he's definitely a fox in the picture with Markita.

Talk about your potential snugglers!

Couples Veto Big Weddings

Some couples veto detailed weddings, says Dorothy Taylor, family life education specialist, the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System. The simple, quick wedding fits their lifestyle and their pocketbooks. But no matter how uncomplicated the ceremony, there must be planning, the specialist says.

For the short-notice wedding, the couple must: —Set date, and decide on type of wedding. Date, time of day and place of wedding must be cleared with the minister or judge performing the ceremony.

—Make arrangements for wedding party wearing apparel.

—Write wedding invitations or order wedding announcements and decide

Program on Gifted Set Wednesday

The October meeting of Creative Education for the Gifted and Talented, a community action group, will be held Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. at the Texas Power and Light Community Room.

Dr. Joy Anderson will speak to the group on tests and measurements for gifted persons. She will discuss the processes of identifying the gifted and measures of creativity of the gifted.

Dr. Anderson was a psychologist with the Plano School District for 11 years and is now in private practice at the Institute of Marriage and Family Counseling in Plano.

For additional details on the meeting, phone 424-5911.

Ballet to Perform Friday

The Dallas Ballet will perform at the University of Texas at Dallas, 2601 N. Floyd Road, Richardson, Oct. 21 at noon.

Under the artistic direction of George Skibine, an internationally famous choreographer, former director of Harkness Ballet and the Paris Opera Ballet, the company will perform in McDermott Library on the University of Texas campus.

The Dallas Ballet and its fourteen professional dancers will perform Can Can, Daphnis and Chloe, Pas De Quatre, and the Pa De Deux from Nutcracker of the Snow Queen and Cavalier.

on wedding cake, other refreshments and flowers, if these are to be included.

—Arrange for a photographer if you want pictures of the occasion.

Some legal steps are necessary. Most states require blood tests or premarital examinations. Only after the necessary health checks—for both partners—can the license be issued.

A marriage license is recognized by most families as necessary for a "legal marriage." A license is bought at the County Clerk's office in the courthouse.

Marriages are made without licenses, too. In Texas, common law marriages become legally binding if the couple present themselves to the public as man and wife. Under the Family Code, no time commitment is required in a common law marriage.

Plan the wedding together, the specialist says. Shared responsibilities from the first commitment to marriage set a precedent that is rewarding throughout the marriage.

—Oh, yes...and keep calm.

Talking, Listening Important

Adult-child communication requires some adapting, says Debby Johnson, family life education specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System. Conversing with a child requires a special skill, Miss Johnson says. A four-year-old does not grasp adult concepts and styles of communication. For example, children have little appreciation for teasing and sarcasm, which most adults tend to use throughout their conversations with other adults.

To talk with a child, advises the specialist, first put yourself on the child's eye level. Children spend their days gazing upward in attempting to make eye contact with adults, so bend down and "level" yourself with children.

Try to use soft tones. This can help calm or soothe a child. Loudness and verbal abuse only upset a child. Even adults react unfavorably to harsh tones, Miss Johnson says.

Above all, children deserve respect. It is only when they are treated with respect that they learn to respect others.

The way adults relate to children can affect children's attitudes toward adults in later years.

Scholarship Winner

Ruth Arnold (center) has been awarded the first scholarship sponsored by the Richland College Women's Club. Jody Skinner (left) and Plano resident Anne Carney, officers of the club, made the recent presentation to Mrs. Arnold, who was selected on the basis of scholarship and merit. She is pursuing a degree in nursing and maintains a 4.0 average. Mrs. Arnold also is active in a number of civic organizations and is a renowned artist.

Children's Garments Standards to Change

The U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission (CPSC) has announced it intends to propose modifications of the flammability standards for children's sleepwear garments while generally maintaining the present level of protection from fire. According to the commission these proposed changes would reduce the need for the use of flame-retardant chemicals.

Earlier this year the commission banned the use of the flame-retardant chemical Tris in children's garments because of a potential cancer threat. Although neither of the commission's sleepwear standards require the use of flame-retardant chemicals, many fabrics commonly used must be chemically treated in order to pass the standard. In response to the national concern generated by Tris, the Commission proposes to amend the sleepwear standards so that more fabrics may be used in making children's sleepwear that do not contain flameretardants.

The proposed modifications are as follows: Residual Flame Time

(RFT) and Trim testing. The requirement for RFT would be eliminated and the provisions for Trim testing would be changed in order to permit greater use of fabrics without flame-retardant chemicals.

Deleting requirements of sleepwear standard for sleepwear smaller than size 1. The Commission believes available injury data does not support the need for a standard to cover children's sleepwear garments in these sizes. Children at this age are generally not mobile and therefore are less exposed to fire sources than older more mobile children. The Commission will also be soliciting comments on whether to require a label on these size garments stating they are not flame-retardant.

The Commission plans to publish the proposals for public comment in the Federal Register within the next few weeks. It is hoped that these changes will take effect in time for the fall 1978 line of children's sleepwear.

America has a high incidence of infant mortality, says Debby Johnson, family life education specialist.

Black and white decorating in a casual room provides plenty of decorating drama. In keeping with the stark design of the room is the floor with giant black and white vinyl squares. Furniture is by Clark Casual.

Black-White Creates Dramatic Decorating

By BARBARA HARTUNG
Copley News Service

Q. We are converting our garage into a casual kind of family room. The room is rather dark and we do not wish to go to the expense right now of cutting windows into the walls, although we probably will later. The room is just off our swimming pool so it will probably get rather hard wear. I imagine that waterproof fabrics will be necessary.

What sort of furniture and plan would you suggest for the family room so it will also be pleasant to use during the winter when we will not use the pool? — S.M.

A. I'd start with a sort of plan heavily based on the need for light in the decorating. Why not a crisp black and white scheme? You could emphasize the white on the walls for plenty of light reflection. You might like a black and white checkerboard effect on the floor, accomplished by using those easy peel and stick vinyl squares.

For the furniture I'd select a casual style, perhaps a white woven reed or rattan or a natural reed or rattan. Add to the furniture plump cushions of black and white fabric — perhaps a black and white floral pattern and a black and white check. You will find the ease of care of the rattan or woven reed frames will be a definite plus. And with simple cushions instead of traditional upholstery you will be able to easily recover the furniture when it needs it.

You might lacquer in shiny black a chest or a pair of them to stow away games or serving supplies for poolside dining. Then for the winter days, add a large area rug of perhaps a warm color, rust, red, orange, gold or in that area of the color spectrum. During the summer when feet are wet, stow the rug away in a closet.

Also add into your plan adequate artificial lighting. Sometimes for rooms such as you describe, track lighting installed on the ceiling is highly functional. If you want general room illumination you can swivel the light to bounce off the ceiling and if you want direct task lighting or dining lighting you can spot the precisely direct light to one spot.

One of the major drawbacks, however, with this kind of lighting is that it is expensive. If you are planning to cut windows at a later time, you might be better off to wait until then so you will have a better idea of where the natural light is and where the dark corners will be.

In the meantime, you might invest in a couple of rather plain bean pot type lamp bases for small rattan tables. These kinds of lamps are usually adaptable to any area of the house.

Q. I have a bedroom which has off-white carpeting and walls and a red cord bedspread. I have added two chests which I painted black and I am going to recover a chair my mother has given me. The wood frame is now painted red and I want to put white fabric on the cushions. Could you suggest something else to add some personality to my room? — T.C.

A. One very easy and I think attractive idea for a bedroom is to decorate a plain corded bedspread with a wild braid or several colors of giant rickrack. Make your bed very carefully, then with about nine yards of rickrack or braid pin the braid to the spread, at the very edge of the bed or in a few inches all the way around. You might also want to do the hem in the braid, too. When you get to the head of the bed, don't stop. Go right on up the wall and figure out some simple decoration on the wall using the braid. This will in effect create a headboard.

Smoking, Pregnancy Don't Go Together

Pregnant women who smoke 11 or more cigarettes a day run an increased risk of a stillborn birth, according to a recent study by Dr. Richard L. Naeye of Pennsylvania State University College of Medicine. The study showed 5.2 per thousand stillbirths as compared to 3.3 per thousand for nonsmoking mothers — or an increase of 57 percent.

Although researchers are not entirely sure how smoking causes the problem, they suspect that the nicotine in tobacco smoke causes the blood vessels in the placenta to contract and pull away from the uterine wall prematurely.

Of course, many smoking mothers experience perfectly normal pregnancies, but the new research would indicate that keeping smoking to a minimum during pregnancy is an added safeguard.

ASTRO-GRAPH Bernice Bede Osol

For Sunday, Oct. 16, 1977

Your Birthday

Oct. 16, 1977

The coming year will be a stimulating and interesting one, with much new knowledge gained in the process. Lots of pleasurable short junkies will alter the tempo and pace.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Use your inquiring mind to seek new knowledge today. You can absorb subjects you may have found difficult to understand previously. Like to find out more of what lies ahead for you? Send for your copy of Astro-Graph Letter by mailing 50 cents for each and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, P.O. Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify your birth sign.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Search for hidden bargains in out-of-the-way places today. You'll be quick to spot valuable items others could overlook.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Fortunately, you're in a gregarious mood and eager to exchange ideas with others today. Beneficial information will be disclosed in your discussions.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Someone in a position to help further your ambitions will feel he can confide in you today. Keep it confidential.

For Monday, Oct. 17, 1977

Your Birthday

Oct. 17, 1977

A change may come about this year that you'll resist because it's not the way you planned things. Better to go along with it, however, because it could work better than your original program.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Quickly rid yourself of the tendency to feel you might be more equal than anyone else today. Looking down on or talking down to others causes only trouble.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Flattery will truly get you nowhere today. The target of your blarney will sense your words have a false ring, and be more annoyed than pleased.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) If you run a little short this week, today could be one of the culprits. You tend to spend money like it's going out of style.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Where normally you're a good judge of people or situations, today that instinctive common sense might desert you. Underestimation can be costly.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Don't expect more today than you have a right to. Others have their own problems and responsibilities and won't chuck them to bail you out.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) When you wish upon a star you depart from the real world. You may indulge in some fantasy today, but don't count on it to come true.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) There's a possibility you'll go out of your way today to impress the wrong people. Unfortunately, they can't or won't help you anyway.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) It may be difficult to look reality square in the eye today. You'll find it much easier to rationalize situations.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Be extra careful today in involvements where money is an issue. Unless everything is handled very properly someone is bound to come up short.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You could be an easy mark for a sharpie today. Be on your guard so that one doesn't sense your vulnerability and take advantage of you.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Chances are your day won't be the most pleasant ever. There'll be a shortage of volunteers for tiresome details. You'll chafe at doing them yourself.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) This is certainly not the day to take chances on an "if." You might succeed for a little while, but your bubble could quickly burst.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19)

Carefully observe associates today. You can gain valuable insights into their character to enable you to deal with them more comfortably later on.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Your best chances for success today come from your ability to act upon the ideas of others. You know how to turn them into something profitable.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Be willing to discuss things frankly today. You'll find matters can be worked out beneficially for everyone concerned.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) A good day to catch up on a neglected project of a mental nature requiring concentration. You're more than up to it.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Your mind reacts quickly and soundly today and you'll be able to transform any sticky negotiations into a fun affair.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Making creative changes in the home is a good idea today. The project should prove enjoyable. The results will please the entire family.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You could be restless today, needing mental stimulation. Plan a day visiting interesting friends or going to interesting places.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Shopping for household items today could prove a fun adventure. Chances are you'll find what you're looking for at just the right price.

For Tuesday, Oct. 18, 1977

Your Birthday

Oct. 18, 1977

Try to be more of an inaugurator this coming year than you have been in the past. You'll move much faster if you initiate rather than vegetate.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You're not a general so don't treat the family like your personal army today. If you do, you could have a small but testy rebellion on your hands.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Extreme sensitivity where your pride is concerned could mar this day. It may take only a sideways glance to reduce you to tears or anger.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Beware of well-meaning friends who try to steer you to bargains today. Their recommendations could be based on erroneous information.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Somewhere along the line you've stepped on the toes of one who exerts influence over your career. Today that person is in a position to retaliate.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You could be out of character today. You may look for the worst in others, rather than for their better qualities. It just isn't your style.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Don't permit yourself to be drawn into associations with those whose ideals and morals aren't up to your standards. This could taint you.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Fortunately you're a rugged individualist. This will stand you in good stead today. Nobody will be behind you to give you a boost.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Co-workers must be treated with extreme tact today, particularly one you've had trouble with before. Another storm may be brewing.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Make it a point today not to stick your nose into situations where you're neither involved or invited. You could be rebuffed or rebuked.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Avoid discussing what already is a sticky issue with your mate today. What was just simmering could turn into a real pot-boiler.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) As long as you're acting on your own volition, you'll be easy to get along with today. If you're ordered to do something, you'll become very balky.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Protect the tools of your trade and possessions today. An ounce of prevention could save you from the trauma of being ripped off.

Remedy for stubborn smell

POLLY'S PROBLEM

By Polly Cramer

DEAR POLLY — Our refrigerator-freezer was unplugged for a while and now it has a terrible odor, particularly in the freezer part. We have tried every remedy we know of but the odor remains. The refrigerator men I have talked to say that to replace the fiberglass insulation that is probably holding the odor would be a laborious and costly job so it could be done. This appliance is only four years old so I hope someone can offer some solution. — C.W.

DEAR C.W. — You do have a problem. Try putting a saucer of vanilla on the top shelf of the refrigerator part. The following letter from a reader is certainly a novel solution and would be well worth a try. — POLLY.

DEAR POLLY — I want to tell you how I sweetened the smell in my freezer after it had not been cleaned for a long time. I cleaned it with soda and water, soap and water and everything I heard about but the terrible smell remained.

Finally I tried something really different. After washing the inside with soap and water I rubbed one of those fabric softener sheets we put in the dryer all over the inside of my freezer. To my amazement the smell disappeared. I shut up the refrigerator but left some of those strips in it and it stayed smelling sweet. Since that time I keep such sheets on the shelves all the time. I wrote to the company that makes this product to ask if it could hurt my freezer. I've had no answer so I still use it and my freezer always smells sweet. — HELEN.

DEAR POLLY — After buying new sheets I stitch, in a contrasting color thread, three rows of stitching from the top of the hem down through the hem. One row is in the center of the sheet and the other two lines are measured so they come at the edge of the mattress on either side. When making a bed the three stitched lines are at the center and at each edge of the bed so I do not get too much sheet on one side or the other. I also do this stitching on blankets. This helps the children who make their own beds to do a quicker and neater job. Do hope others find this helpful. — UNA.

DEAR POLLY — I always hated to waste the lipstick that remained in the bottom of a tube. Now I remove this unused portion of lipstick, put it into a soup spoon and melt it over hot water. It is a wax and melts easily. It can then be poured back into an empty tube. Mixing the leftovers from two or three tubes gives one entirely new shades that are always pretty. — ELSIE.

DEAR POLLY — Occasionally an aerosol can will come with a defective nozzle. I always keep the nozzles from all kinds of cans that are to be discarded so I can easily replace a defective one. — JUDY.

Polly will send you one of her signed thank-you newspaper coupon clippers if she uses your favorite Pointer, Peeve or Problem in her column. Write POLLY'S POINTERS in care of this newspaper.

Prayer Breakfast

All youth in seventh grade or older are invited to participate in Friday morning prayer breakfasts sponsored by First Baptist Church at King's Table. The group meets at restaurant for breakfast and devotional period, and the church provides transportation to school. Youth Director Don Sewell (upper photo) addresses the group before two 'regulars' dig into breakfast. (Staff Photo by Richard LaGow).

There's an Answer!

by Norman Vincent Peale & Ruth Stafford Peale

Q. I was hurt by a girl and began drugs and alcohol and it led to trouble for me. I was served some warrants, but when I met my wife my whole life changed. She knew of the trouble I was in and it did not turn her against me because she loved me and says she still does. She insisted we get married before I did time in prison. I tried to let her back out but she insisted, so we got married. But now she says she wants a divorce. I'm going home soon and have begged and pleaded with her but it's done no good. I feel if I lose her the world might as well end. I dearly love her and I'm being hurt. I'd appreciate your answer and I'd like my wife to read it.

A. Let us hope your wife will stand by you as you head into a new life of self-control and creativity. She will prove herself a really strong person if she does.

But if she chooses to leave you, then just go ahead on your own. It is silly to say that if you "lose her the world might as well end." Be a man; live your own life. As a matter of fact, as you do more respect and even more love for you. If she does not, then perhaps you do not really need her at all.

We have a booklet, YOU'VE GOT A FUTURE, that has helped others with problems such as yours and a copy of it is on its way to you. Any reader wishing a copy may write to us at Box 500, Pawling, NY 12564.

Daughter living in sin

Q. Our 20-year-old daughter was a good girl, went to church every Sunday with us. But a year ago a boy her age talked her into having sex with him. When I found out that she was at his apartment almost every night doing this I told her to leave home. To me she was filth, living in sin. So they are living together. We have very little to do with her. But we love her. When she's told that she's living in sin, she replies, "Not if you're in love." I've cried many buckets of tears and asked the Lord why did He allow this to happen. I've put her in the Lord's hands, and perhaps she'll come home to us and ask forgiveness. But so far the devil has won out. Why?

A. We would hazard the guess that if the devil has won out thus far in connection with your problem, it could be because of the absence of four powerful and positive factors: love, compassion, understanding and forgiveness.

When those qualities are absent, the devil can well have a field day.

That your daughter is engaged in a wrong way of life, we agree. Her excuse that what she is doing is all right "when you're in love" is a specious and invalid rationalization.

Not married, but why?

Q. My boy friend and I have been going steady for about three years. He and I have a daughter two years old. I love him and I really believe he loves me. He's 26 and I am 19. I asked him a long time ago why he didn't want to marry me and he says he is not ready. But out of all that we get along OK. I want to know why we haven't married in this length of time.

A. Likely he will never be ready to marry you. And the reason? He just doesn't want you enough to assume marital responsibility.

One wonders how dumb women can be not to realize these boy friends want sex without having a legal wife on their hands. And so-called sophisticated girls still fall for this "I love you, I'm going to marry you" bunk.

Catholic Nun Enters Politics

Represents Poor, Elderly, Handicapped

By JO-ANNE BYRNE
MINNEAPOLIS (UPI) — What's a nice girl like Jackie Slater doing in politics?

For one thing she's learning it from the precinct up to the state level while experimenting with a different life style than that usually enjoyed by a Roman Catholic nun.

Ms. Slater, 43, defeated incumbent alderman Earl Netwal in the 6th Ward primary race for the Minneapolis City Council and is confident of victory in the November election.

"I'm not making plans with the idea of not winning," she said in an interview after the primary. Ms. Slater said Democrat Farm Labor Party leaders asked her last December to run for alderman. At first she refused but finally agreed and her decision was backed by her religious order.

"I didn't feel that the 6th Ward was being represented," she said. "The ward is filled with the poor, the elderly, the handicapped and nursing homes, and housing is the worst of any place in the city. There are also more renters in this ward."

Before the primary, Netwal was acquitted of a perjury charge in connection with a liquor licensing scandal and Ms. Slater made a point not to use his trial as a campaign issue. She defeated Netwal by 267 votes and faces Kym Workuff, an independent Republican, Nov. 8.

Apparently the only thing her opponents could use against her, she said, was her membership in the Sisters of St. Joseph of Carondelet, a teaching and nursing order which branched out and revised its rule of life in recent years. She knows of at least one other nun in the order who has entered politics. Sister Claire Dunn of the Arizona House of Representatives.

Ms. Slater said she noted in the campaign that being a nun didn't seem to make much difference to non-Catholics, but it did to traditional Catholics.

Among those who opposed her candidacy, she said, were "those people who were upset with changes in the church, who wanted nuns to wear habits, who wanted a return to the Latin Mass and things they remembered from their youth."

"Sometimes I felt it was almost like a prejudice that they felt, 'this is your role, don't exceed it.'"

Ms. Slater holds a masters degree in science teaching from the University of Wisconsin at Superior. Included in her 13 years of teaching were three years with inner city youth at St. Stephens in Minneapolis, an experience which she said "helps you to be very real."

"These people are not impressed with named importance," she said, "you have to prove yourself."

Ms. Slater estimated she met a third of the 35,000 residents of the 6th Ward and spent $3,000 to $4,000 in the primary campaign. She expects to spend about $1,000 more before November and has limited individual contributions to $100.

She sees herself as a feminist, supports the Equal Rights Amendment and fully expects a woman to be governor of Minnesota or president of the United States some day.

"Someone will come along and, if the time is right, it will happen," she said. "It all depends on what the people see as your capabilities."
